Boy's Wit Saves Congregation In Easter Fire at Edison Church

MRS. BLACK, 71, DIES SUNDAY AFTER STROKE

Widow of Founder of Ohio Brass Company Stricken as She Entertains Guests.

FUNERAL TO BE TUESDAY

Had Devoted Much of Time For Many Years to Furthering Community Work.

Mrs. Jessie Baxter Black, 71, widow of the late Frank B. Black, died at her home, Marion avenue road at 7:30 p. m. Sunday a few hours after she was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Black, who was the "mother" of many of the city's charitable and community organizations, had attended services at First Congregational church yesterday morning and had entertained guests at dinner at noon. She was talking to friends in the game room of Raemelton House at 4:30 p. m. when she was stricken, and died three hours later.

MRS. FRANK B. BLACK

Her death followed that of her husband by two years and three months. Frank Black, founder of the Ohio Brass company, also died on a Sunday afternoon. He was stricken with a heart attack while riding horseback.

At the home at the time she died were Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Conklin, and Kenneth Dirlam, the latter a brother-in-law.

After her death, it was recalled that during the dinner longevity was a subject of conversation, and when Mr. Dirlam commented on a member of the family having lived to be 92 years old, Mrs. Black said she believed that was too long to live, and that she was "afraid" she would live to be that old herself.

Mrs. Black was a leader in community work, and it was said that her living room was the cradle of many of the worthwhile organizations of the city.

She was born in Salem, O., Dec. 20, 1869, the daughter of John L.

Man Injured In Fall From Bridge On March 7 Dies

William C. Miller, 30, of 111 North Mulberry street, died Sunday at General hospital from injuries sustained when he fell from a scaffold while working on the new Westinghouse bridge March 7.

Mr. Miller, a structural steel worker, who resided in Pittsburgh, Pa., before coming here last fall to work on the construction job, fell 35 feet to the ground.

Both legs were broken and he suffered back injuries. He was employed by the American Steel Band company of Pittsburgh. It was the first accident on the new project.

Mr. Miller was born in Pittsburgh, Dec. 18, 1909, and is survived by his wife, Anna; a sister, Mrs. R. H. Taylor of Pittsburgh, and his mother, Mrs. Anna R. Miller of Pittsburgh.

The body was shipped to Pittsburgh where funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Sod Frozen, Eggs Roll On Anyway

Kiddies, Grown-Ups Too Frolic Today On Lawn Of White House.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A White House policeman tested the frozen ground with the tough toe of his brogan this morning, and muttered:

"That'll bust any egg ever laid."

The velvety sod of the president's lawn, turned hard by frigid March winds, threatened to raise havoc with thin egg shells at the capital's annual Easter egg rolling.

Despite the coldest Easter weather in 17 years, orders went out to open the White House gates early to admit the children of banker, butcher, government clerk and humble laborer. The cold, however, was expected to hold the throng far below the record 1937 attendance of 53,180.

Egg rolling, a custom peculiar to the capital, was not designed for the 18-degree temperatures that have ridden near gales into Washington for the last two mornings.

Technically, one child or more sits at the top of a slope and looses a flood of painted eggs toward one child or more at the bottom of the slope. Actually, the scene is chaos — children, eggs, parents, and basket lunches bumping and jostling on the crowded lawn.

Five bands warmed up their cold instruments for an almost continuous concert.

Washington's egg rollings have been held at the White House each year since congress in 1876 barred the mothers and children from Capitol hill.

It is customary for the president and the first lady to watch the visitors at least once during the day.

TURKEY ACTS TO AVERT DANGERS

Attempts to Ease Situation Between Allies, Soviet to Keep War From Near East.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Turkey is trying to improve relations between the Allies and Russia in hope of averting any danger of war in the Near East but is meeting with no noticeable success, it was understood today.

It was reported that Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador to London, had told several British political leaders that there was still a chance for Britain to regain Russia's friendship and that he, likewise, received no encouragement.

Maisky had previously told R. A. Butler, parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs, that Britain had lost a chance to improve relations when it refused to forward Rus-

TRIALS OPEN

High Pennsy Dems Face Jury In $2,000,000 'Macing.'

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence and seven other members of his party went on trial today on charges of conspiring to "mace" or assess state workers for political contributions under threat of dismissal or demotion.

The charges resulted from accusations hurled during the 1938 Democratic state primary campaign. A grand jury investigation brought indictments of a number of high Democrats in the Little New Deal" administration of former Gov. George H. Earle, now U. S. minister to Bulgaria, and conviction of three men in a series of trials.

District Attorney Carl B. Shellef charged in his petition for the grand jury investigation that Lawrence and his co-defendants sought to solicit state employes for contributions totalling $2,000,000 during the Earle administration.

BRITAIN STEPS UP DRIVE ON NAZI SHIPPING

Claim Two Freighters Sunk, Third Chased to Shore By Naval Forces.

FRENCH TAKE PRISONERS

Paris Reports German Patrol Scattered; Pope Voices New Appeal for Peace.

Apparently under orders to throttle Germany's Scandinavian lifeline, the merchant shipping lanes skirting the coasts of the northern neutrals, the British navy today counted two Nazi freighters sunk and a third chased aground.

Germany asserted the casualties were the result of territorial violations and Norway protested in London against two alleged British encroachments and investigated reports of a third.

While the British naval prowling in the mine-strewn North Sea saw the first attacks of British submarines against the Reich's merchant ships, Pope Pius XII in his Easter homily from the throne yesterday besought the world to return to the principles of Christianity. Without them, he said, there could be no peace with "truth, justice and charity."

On the western front, the French reported they had scattered a large German patrol and taken prisoners.

France's new premier, Paul Reynaud, announced he would address the nation by radio tomorrow at 2 p. m. (Est). Reynaud was reported gaining strength, for his "fight and win" government.

At sea, the 2,189-ton German freighter Edmund Hugo Stinnes was shelled to the bottom by a British submarine a few miles off Sakgen, northernmost Denmark.

Another Nazi ore carrier, the 5,000-ton Ostpreussen, was harried aground near Jutland on the western Danish coast.

The British, meanwhile, counted their 31st naval loss of the war, the mine-sinking of the 210-ton trawler Loch Assater and in London press reports charged Germany was scheming to get Rumania's oil.

The diplomatic tug-of-war over the economic wealth of the Balkans was reflected in Rome, where Hungarian Foreign Minister Pal Teleky and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano conferred.

They were believed to have discussed an easing of Hungary's demands on Rumania for world war-lost territory and possible rapprochement between Rome and Moscow, a friendship Germany is trying to effect. Russia, by occupying a part of Poland, now borders on Hungary.

In the Far East, the Chinese reported they had stopped a Japanese advance near Wuyuan, in western Suiyuan province of inner Mongolia, and had seized a large quantity of the invader's war material.

Three Engineers Marooned By Gale On Mountain Top

LAKE PLACID, N. Y.—(AP)—A screaming 125-mile-an-hour gale and 18 below zero weather marooned three television engineers atop bleak Whiteface mountain today where they clambered Saturday to bring television Easter services to an isolated meteorological station crew.

By short wave radio the men, Joseph Wiggin, Alex Smith and Elbert F. Corwin, reported that if the wind abated they would attempt the descent tomorrow.

Two others of the party, George Burns and William Dinsmore, managed the return trip yesterday.

Corwin, a professor at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, radioed the televised New York service were interrupted by yesterday's electrical disturbances, but that a Saturday night telecast "came in perfectly."

Engineers said the distance from New York is 250 miles, the longest distance television has been received.

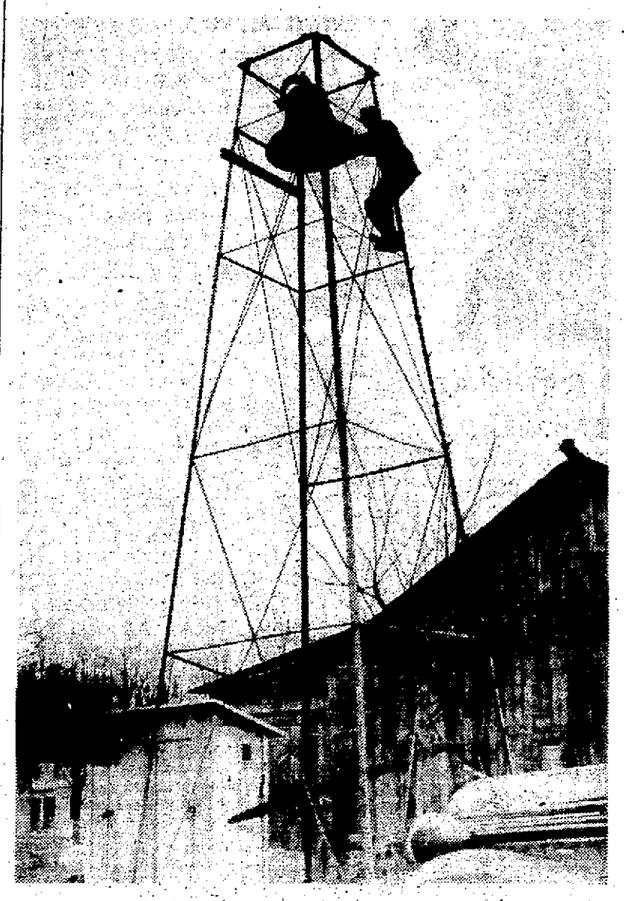
Scenes at Easter Sunday Fire, Hero of Blaze



—News-Journal Photos.

'I Just Ran,' Says Young Hero of Fire at Edison

13-Year-Old Lad Tells How He Sounded Alarm, Then Climbed 35-Foot Tower to Ring Bell.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

"I was on my way home from my father's store with Neil Wright. As we neared the church we noticed smoke coming from the roof. It seemed that it was leaking out of the shingles all over.

"I knew then that it must be on fire so I ran as fast as I could, yanked open the front door and yelled, 'The church is on fire'."

Excitedly but without braggadocio, 13-year-old Dick Bollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Bollinger related yesterday afternoon how he saved the lives of approximately 80 worshippers attending Easter services at the Methodist church in Edison, west of Mt. Gilead.

The young hero of the fire was still on the scene and was assisting volunteer firemen to extinguish the still-smouldering blaze.

"I didn't wait to see what happened after that. I started to run for the fire bell to call the firemen. The roof by that time was all ablaze."

"I ran to the town hall, (two blocks away) but by the time I got there some fellow had already started to ring the bell. He only pulled it once or twice and then the wire broke," the youth added.

"I shinnied up the tower and grabbed the clapper and rang it until the firemen came to the station. I could see the church two blocks away from way up there and it was sure burning by that time."

Dick, who attends the Edison consolidated school and plays a trumpet in the school band said he and Neil Wright, 10, were on the way home for dinner when they discovered the fire.

"You know, we were having chicken for dinner and my mother had sent me to find out when dad would be home for dinner. He sells tractors and was at the store," he went on.

"Gosh, I haven't had that chicken yet but I'll get some when I get home. It sure will taste good too," he added.

STARTS 71-MILE ATLANTIC SWIM

French Distance Swimmer Coated With Grease, Lamp Black.

ABOARD THE SCHOONER SEA BREEZE, Off BIMINI, B. W. I.—(U.P.)—Paul Chotteau, French distance swimmer, slipped into the water at 7:08 a. m. today, starting his attempt to swim 71 miles in the Atlantic ocean from Bimini to West Palm Beach, Fla.

His body coated with grease in which lamp black had been mixed to keep sharks away, Chotteau swung into his unorthodox crawl stroke and began heading due west. The water was about 78 degrees.

A dory, manned by two men who will feed Chotteau at intervals and will keep a lookout for sharks and barracuda, moved alongside him.

Lots Of Things Happen On Movie Capital's Easter

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—There was more to Easter in the movie colony than the quite stylish dress parade on Hollywood boulevard. Such as:

Penny (Blondie) Singleton's fractured knee-cap and possible broken ribs, suffered in an automobile accident.

The applause, which disregarded instructions, accorded Kenny Baker after he sang "Ave Maria" in German at Hollywood bowl's sunrise services, which drew many film elite.

The flight, at about the same moment, of movie notables and others as officers staged a dawn gambling raid on two swank night spots on the "Sunset Strip," the Bacon and Sphinx clubs.

The marriage of Lorraine Clarke, 21, actress Mae Clarke's sister, and studio electrician Wilbur Kinnett, with Mae Clarke as attendant.

The announcement that George Raft would place his hand and foot-prints in the sacred (to filmdom) cement before Grauman's Chinese theater, where the great of cinema have left their marks.

The death of Mrs. Erna Schildkraut, mother of actor Joseph Schildkraut and widow of stage veteran Rudolph Schildkraut.

SOUNDS ALARM AFTER SEEING ROOF ABLAZE

80 Escape Flaming Building Before Roof Caves in; Loss Set at $3,000.

SERMON INTERRUPTED

Two Fire Companies Fight Blaze, Fail to Save 60-Year-Old Methodist Structure.

The quick wit of a 13-year-old boy prevented what might have been a major Easter tragedy yesterday morning as fire destroyed the 60-year-old Methodist church at Edison, two miles west of Mt. Gilead.

The blaze broke out in the midst of Easter morning services, with a congregation of about 80 in the auditorium.

Thanks to the boy's warning, all managed to escape, and hymn books, the church piano and the day's collection were saved.

Loss was estimated by Rev. W. T. McWilliams, pastor of the church, at $3,000, almost all of the loss being covered by insurance.

The youthful hero of the blaze was Dick Bollinger, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Bollinger, who was walking home from his father's hardware store with a companion, Neil Wright, 10.

Shortly before 12 o'clock, he looked toward the church and saw that the roof around the chimney was in flames.

He ran to the church, a block and a half away, pulled open the door and yelled "The church is on fire!"

Immediately, parishioners began to grab hats, coats, hymn books and anything else that was moveable and made their way to the doors.

Then Dick ran another two blocks to the town hall to ring the fire bell, to summon the Edison volunteer fire department.

By the time he got there, a man had also noticed the fire and had begun ringing the bell. He had only rung it once or twice, however, when the wire bell-pull broke.

Dick, still thinking fast, climbed to the top of the 35-foot tower in which the bell

7 KILLED IN 2 CRASHES TODAY

Clevelander, Hurt Saturday Near Mt. Gilead, Dies in Hospital Here.

Two automobile-truck collisions claimed seven lives in Ohio this morning to boost the state's traffic fatalities to 16 for the Easter week-end.

One of the victims was Lawrence Fineberg, 22, Cleveland Heights, who died Sunday morning in Mansfield General hospital of injuries he suffered late Saturday in an accident near Mt. Gilead.

Richland county escaped without an accident, but a Mansfield resident was seriously injured Saturday when his car struck a cement bridge on route 42 near Cardington. He is James Ernsberger, 25, of 42 Elizabeth avenue. He was still unconscious today in Mansfield General hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and fractures of his right foot. Alone, he was returning to Mansfield from Columbus.

Four CCC youths were killed and two were injured early today when the car in which they were riding was struck by a

SHOT TO DEATH

Housemaid Slain, Boy, 11, to Be Questioned by Police.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Hamilton county authorities said today they would question an 11-year-old boy about the fatal shooting of Miss Margaret Gruel, 44, a housemaid in the home of Stanley M. Rowe in the exclusive Indian Hill suburb of Cincinnati.

Miss Gruel was shot Saturday night when she went to a bedroom to dress Rowe's son, Snowden, for dinner. The top of her head was blown off by a shotgun charge.

Rowe, chairman of the Cincinnati Housing Authority and vice president of an elevator company, was at home when the shooting occurred. He ran to the bedroom and found the boy hysterical and crying.

The boy was said to have been using the gun earlier in the day to shoot clay pigeons.

Coldest Easter Passes And Still No Relief's In Sight

Easter of 1940 went into history today as the coldest on record in Ohio and many other parts of the country, with little relief in sight from icy winds and subfreezing temperatures.

The forecast for today was fair and continued cold, with tomorrow to be cloudy with light snow.

Mansfield church-goers and those brave enough to attempt the "Easter parade" shivered yesterday morning with the temperature around five above.

Those flowery don-dads the women call hats were much in evidence, but few risked the chilly breezes in spring suits and coats. However florists must have done a land-office business, for the winter coats were much bedecked with fragile corsages.

The official temperature at Columbus yesterday was 12 degrees—five degrees lower than that recorded at Christmas. Previous low for March 24 was in 1882 when the mercury slid to 16. The high in Mansfield for yesterday was 20 degrees. Today at 8 a. m. the temperature was 11 degrees.

The cold belt extended from Texas and the Mississippi valley eastward to the Carolinas and the middle and north Atlantic states. It was the coldest Easter in many regions with only Florida, southern Louisiana and parts of the far west reporting ideal promenade weather.

'Sun Spots' Hold Up Easter Telegrams For Mansfielders

Numerous Mansfield persons received delayed Easter greetings yesterday following a communication-wrecking magnetic storm, described by scientists as a "sun-spot tornado," which virtually cut American and European cities off from each other for nearly five hours.

From about 10:30 a. m. Sunday until 3:20 p. m. and intermittently through the evening, telephone, cable, telegraph, teletype and short-wave radio communications were disrupted throughout eastern United States and western Europe.

Scientists attributed the sudden fading out of communications to a violent electrical bombardment caused by the sun-spots and followed at night by a brilliant display of the aurora borealis or northern lights.

Communication companies reported the breakdown in service the most serious within recent memory. Even the U. S. Navy communications system which carries vital information to American officials abroad was temporarily affected.

Western Union and Postal telegraph lines carrying hundreds of thousands of Easter greetings were unable to function for several hours.

Although telephone officials here reported that little difficulty was experienced in "getting through" long distance calls, the Western Union reported that about 25 incoming messages were delayed when the communication system suddenly went awry. Postal Telegraph was not open here during the five-hour period, officials of the company said.

FAST-THINKING OF YOUTH SAVES 80 FROM BLAZE

Boy, 13, Routs Congregation as Easter Sunday Fire Hits Edison Church.

hangs, and swung the clapper back and forth by hand.

His warning cry of "Fire" delivered a few minutes earlier, had come none too soon.

By the time the congregation had cleared the building, open daylight was visible through the church roof, and the blaze had gained startling headway.

A group of men had just pushed the piano out of the building when the roof fell in.

The Edison fire department, reinforced by the Mt. Gilead department, which had been summoned, brought the blaze under control, but was unable to save the building.

Since Edison has no piped water supply system, firemen were forced to pump water from nearby cisterns.

The alarm of the Bollinger boy was sounded as Miss Marie Tschappat, Mt. Vernon evangelist, was drawing to the close of her Easter morning service. Also on the pulpit platform with Miss Tschappat were Rev. McWilliams and Miss Iada Burris, Mt. Vernon, the evangelist's accompanist.

"There was no sign of panic," Rev. McWilliams said today describing the behavior of the congregation as it made its way out of the burning building.

"Of course, people were excited, as they naturally would be in case of fire, but everyone was orderly and no one suffered so much as a bruise in getting out of danger," he said.

A pulpit chair, some Sunday school chairs, hymn books, the piano and the church collection were saved.

Miss Florence Crider, one of the parishioners, had the presence of mind enough to pick up the collection plates as she made her way to the door.

"I was sitting near the front of the church and as I rose to leave I saw the plates and just grabbed them," she related.

Miss Crider turned the plates over to the church secretary when she got outside.

The heat from the blaze was so intense that for a time it was feared that the church parsonage would catch fire. Three windows on the residence were shattered by the heat, and parishioners, helpless to save their burning church, turned their efforts to removing the pastor's furniture from the building.

The fire companies, however, managed to prevent the flames from spreading.

Although the exact cause of the blaze was not established, Rev. McWilliams advanced the opinion that the chimney had burned out and that hot cinders had dropped on the old and dry shingle roof, where the blaze was first noticed.

He said the church auditorium was not abnormally warm as it would have in the case of an overheated furnace, and Mrs. L. O. Taylor, janitress at the church, said she had taken care of the furnace, which is in the basement, just before 11 o'clock, when the service started. She said there was nothing unusual about the condition of the furnace at the time.

"The first unusual thing I noticed," said Rev. McWilliams, "was a slight crackling sound, such as hail pounding against a window might make. I remember thinking at the time that it sounded as though it was storming outside again."

The Methodist church is the only one in Edison. Arrangements were made to hold services in the high school auditorium hereafter.

AGAIN AWAITS JURY'S ACTION

Suspect in Night Club Theft Bound Over, Denies He Admitted Robbery.

Washington Carter 24, colored, was back in the county jail today, the second time in the past two months, awaiting jury action on a charge of breaking and entering.

Arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court this morning Carter pleaded innocent and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond.

He is accused of breaking into the J. B. Miller night club, 90 Orange street, on Feb. 5, and stealing a quart of whisky and $2.50 from the cash drawer.

E. C. Fuller, police identification officer testified that Carter was arrested after fingerprints taken at the scene of the burglary "matched" those of Carter's on file. He said Carter signed a statement admitting the theft.

Carter, however, denied that he had burglarized the place or that he had made such a statement to police.

Indicted by the county grand jury two weeks ago for breaking into the John Urdia tavern on Bowman street road, he was placed on three years' probation last Monday by Judge C. H. Huston.

He was jailed after he had been struck over the head with a blackjack and trussed up by Urdia who lay in wait in his establishment after several burglaries had occurred.

RED CARD WITH FDR'S NAME ON IT STIRS DIES

Witness Refuses to Tell Who Assumed's President's Name in Communist Group.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A membership card in the Communist party bearing the assumed name of Franklin D. Roosevelt was introduced into the record of the Dies unAmerican committee today.

The witness, among whose effects the card was seized denied it was his, and refused point blank, to tell what party member had assumed the same name as the president.

The card was introduced when the committee opened hearings on an asserted far-flung espionage ring in this country. First witness was James Hulse Dolsen, an avowed Communist of Pittsburgh.

Dolsen, who said he was a Communist "since the party was formed" said he also was a former teacher on the education program of WPA.

"What did you teach?" Committee Counsel, Robert Lynch asked.

"Trade unionism," he replied.

Further questioning along this line brought a heated retort from the witness "what is this, a fishing expedition?"

Chairman Dies (D) Texas, strongly admonished Dolsen and insisted he answer questions.

Holding the Communist party card bearing the legend "Franklin D. Roosevelt, Fifth District, Pennsylvania," Lynch asked:

"Is that your party name?"

Dolsen denied this and Lynch went on.

"Whose card is it?"

"I'd rather not answer," Dolsen said.

Instructed by Dies to answer, he said, "I don't know." He admitted the card had been among his papers but refused to say when and where he got it.

Earlier, Dies announced that the committee later will call Nicholas Dozenberg, Communist leader, who is awaiting sentence in New York on a plea of guilty to passport fraud charges.

"We're starting an investigation of espionage in this country," Dies said.

"We'll move as fast as we can get witnesses. We expect to call Dozenberg as soon as they decide to let him come down here."

3 Weeks on Vendol Relieved Local Nurseryman Much Pain

Had taken everything recommended to him for troubles in stomach due to constipation. Says nothing ever gave as much relief as Vendol.

MR. J. C. MARSHALL

Of all the wonderful recommendations for what Vendol will do to keep men and women from suffering from troubles in the stomach and other symptoms that follow when the bowels become inactive permitting poisons to remain in the body, here is one that stands out. It is from Mr. J. C. Marshall, the well known Nurseryman and Landscape Gardener of 66 Heineman Blvd., who has done some big jobs here in Mansfield and elsewhere, and who says:

"I had been suffering for years from constipation which caused untold agonies in my stomach and had taken everything recommended to me for my trouble but it's a positive fact that about three weeks ago I started taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets and I've gotten more relief than from anything else. I ever tried. This medicine is truly great.

"I read what people said about Vendol so got a bottle. It helped me so I got more and today I'm feeling fine. It relieved my constipation thoroughly so now I eat anything I want but never suffer from sour stomach, acid risings or gas. I used to feel bloated, had shortness of breath and "heartburn" but no more.

"I also used to feel dizzy at times, spots danced before my eyes, had a bad taste in my mouth and a coated tongue but when Vendol relieved the constipation all these troubles were also relieved. I'm glad to endorse Vendol and feel sure it will help anyone suffering the same as I did."

In many cases of indigestion, sour stomach, dizziness, sluggish, "all in" feeling, pains in the back and limbs, the cause can be traced to constipation or need of a kidney diuretic. Vendol, an extract of finest roots and herbs with alkalines added for extra benefits, gives gratifying relief from constipation in an easy, pleasant way. Give it a chance to help you.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended by Central Drug Store, corner Main & 4th Streets. Come in today and have the Vendol Man explain all about this marvelous compound.

RECEPTION HELD FOR NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Department President Esther Schooler, National Aide Elizabeth Campbell Arrange Patriotic Affair.

A BANQUET and reception honoring National President, Bertha Mae Droz, of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was an event of Saturday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Department President Esther Schooler, Cincinnati, was in charge, and Elizabeth Campbell, national aide of Mansfield, was general chairman. The affair was conducted by the Department of Ohio, D. of U. V.

National colors of yellow decorated the guest table which was centered with yellow candles in copper sticks, roses, and ferns. The smaller tables also were decorated with yellow plants, and flags draped the walls and windows. Corsages of pastel flowers tied with yellow ribbon were the individual favors.

Seated at the guest table was Mrs. Droz Doris Merriman, national councilor from Toledo, Mrs. Schooler, department president, and six members of the Ohio staff, Dr. Grover E. Swoyer, Department Commander R. B. Gardner of the American Legion, Leo Hartman, president of the Sons of the American Revolution, Henrietta Sherman, tent president, Mrs. Ada Palmer, charter member of the tent, and Mrs Campbell.

The invocation was given by Dr. Swoyer who also spoke on "American Freedom." Mr. Gardner spoke on "Privileges of America."

Mrs. Sherman gave greetings, after which Mrs. Palmer gave a gift from the tent to Mrs. Droz, and Jessie Hines, Massillon, presented the department gifts. Many gifts and flowers from organizations and friends, and letters and telegrams were also read. A message from Adam Andrews, Commander in Chief of the Grand Army, was read.

The D. of U. V. drum corps from Wooster, preceded the officer, who were escorted by the local tent color bearers attired in white costumes with blue capes lined in red, to the reception room. More than 200 persons greeted Mrs. Droz during the evening, and dinner was served to 75.

Edith Fletcher Jameson, accompanied by Margaret B. Hall, gave a costume musical. She sang selections from 17th century music, the Gypsy, the oriental and modern.

Greetings were brought by Mrs. Verna Hall, president of the Spanish War Veterans auxiliary; Mrs. Robert Jones, president of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Hazel Brannon, president of Auxiliary No. 100. A gift was presented by three representatives of the Daughters of America.

Recent Bride

The former Miss Nellie Elisabeth Reader, above, is shown as she appeared at her wedding March 16 when she became the bride of Charles Thomas Atwell at the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Atwell are now at home on Delaware avenue in Swissvale, Pa. The former Miss Reader had previously taught physical education at the Madison Township school.

Informal Service Performed Early Easter Morning

Palms, ferns and Easter flowers decorated the altar of the South Main Street Evangelical church yesterday morning for the wedding of Miss Esther May Falk and Robert Dale Fry at 8.30 o'clock. Rev. C. L. Kern performed the ceremony before the altar, which was lighted with two seven-branched candelabra.

Miss Olive Jean Hughes, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ. Her selection included "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I Love You Truly" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March. During the service she played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Falk, 1 Glenwood Heights, wore a semi-tailored frock of dusky rose sheer crepe for her wedding. Gardenias formed her shoulder corsage and she chose blue and white accessories to compliment the tones of her dress.

Miss Fern Hammerstein the bride's only attendant, was attired in an aqua sheer crepe dress with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of roses and sweetpeas. Mr. Fry who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fry, 85 Flint street, had his bride's brother, Edward Falk, as his best man.

Mrs. Falk wore a dubonnet gown with navy blue accessories for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Fry wore a navy and white ensemble. Both women had shoulder corsages of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Falk of Toledo and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fry of Detroit, Mich., were out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry left on a southern motor trip immediately after the ceremony. For traveling, the bride wore a black and white crepe costume with matching accessories. Upon returning to Mansfield, the couple will reside at the Glenwood Heights address.

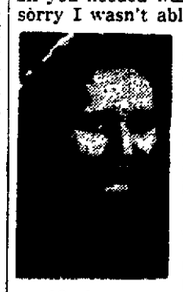
Both Mr. and Mrs. Fry are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed in the general office at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, while he is an employe of Roth Brothers.

Informally Speaking...

March 25, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

DID you have a happy Easter? If the fashion promenade in your town met with the same cold temperatures as it did here, about all you needed was a perky bonnet to brighten up your fur coat. I'm sorry I wasn't able to write you last Monday, Lucy, but it seems as if that old flu bug caught up with me (as it has so many folks here of late) and sent me to bed for a few days.



Marianne

Had you been in Mansfield over the week-end, you undoubtedly would have been pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. John Chatlain again. . . . They were visiting here with their families, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chatlain, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Henness—of course you remember that Mrs. Chatlain was Josephine Henness before her marriage last fall. . . . They're living in Chicago now, where Mr. Chatlain is on the staff of the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. while attending George Williams college.

* * * * *

We're bidding goodbye to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth C. Donnan today as they're leaving for Bloomington, Ill., to make their new home. . . . Mr. Donnan has been transferred there by the Tappan Stove company to have Chicago and Illinois as a sales district. . . . She is the former Elizabeth Anderson, you know.

* * * * *

VIRGINIA PALMER had the pleasure of spending Easter Sunday in New York City. . . . She went East Saturday to visit friends and relatives—in fact, she'll be there all this week. Before returning home, she'll stop to see relatives in Port Washington, L. I. and Madison, N. J.

* * * * *

Even though it's spring officially now, the thermometers seem to be stuck in the near-zero zone, so we just can't help being a little envious of those Florida vacationers—in spite of the fact that it's nearly the first of April. . . . Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Smedal are stopping at the Whitman hotel in Miami Beach now.

* * * * *

THE fact is, Lucy, lots of Mansfielders are taking southern jaunts. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler left yesterday to drive down to New Orleans. They're planning to go to Natchez, Miss., for the annual garden pilgrimage before coming back North in about two weeks. . . . Mrs. Siegenthaler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mead, are having a change too. They're keeping their young grandson while his parents are away.

* * * * *

Did you know that Atty. and Mrs. Charles W. Chew and their daughter, Virginia, have driven down to Mexico, where they'll vacation until about the middle of next month. . . . Incidentally, Ginny is a pretty lucky person—just taking a month off from her studies in library school at Western Reserve university—speaks quite well for her scholastic ability, doesn't it, Lucy?

* * * * *

IT LOOKS as though that's all the news for today, so I'll write again next week—but in the meantime, I'd like to see a letter from you.

Lovingly,

Marianne

New Cure For Victims Of Drink

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is your husband, fiance, or father on too intimate terms with John Barleycorn?

"Alcoholics Anonymous" may be the solution. It's a completely informal group of five hundred men in which John D. Rockefeller, jr., has been interested for the past two and a half years, and which came into being four years ago.

Andrew L. Scott, who presided at a recent dinner for the members, given by Mr. Rockefeller, explained the workings of the group, as a socially-minded observer. He is the joint author of a book called "Toward Liquor Control," which he wrote in collaboration with Raymond B. Fosdick. He is also a trustee of the Riverside church and chairman of the Foreign Missions Inquiry commission.

This disease, alcoholism, often gets a a decent citizen in middle life. Those years, when disillusionment sets in, and a man realizes he is not going to accomplish all those fine things he dreamed of in early youth, and the fear of losing his job and having no old-age security and drives him to forgetfulness at any cost.

The founder of the "Alcoholics Anonymous" society was a traveling salesman, succumbing to alcoholism and seriously ill in a New York hospital. This man decided he could not rely upon himself or medical cures to stop his drinking, and made up his mind to call on some outside influence to help him. He was an agnostic, but nevertheless he believed there were certain "spiritual forces" in the universe for such cases as his, and he determined to call on those forces for help.

To his surprise, after repeated struggles, he found that his appetite for liquor was diminishing.

It was something like a chain letter system at first. Each person who was helped by a belief in those "spiritual forces" told someone else, and before long the idea had spread through several states and hundreds of persons were writing for information and begging to be cured.

When the business began to get out of hand some representatives of the group called on Mr. Rockefeller and asked for advice. He advised them to retain their amateur standing and offered to contribute what little money was needed for members of the group who had to travel to interview prospective converts.

So successful has been this movement that certain physicians are looking into the working principles of the "Alcoholics Anonymous" society. It goes without saying that the movement appeals only to such patients who want to be cured, and is out of the question for those who prefer to lead a sodden existence.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, March 26.

The lunar transits for this day forecast a very lively day, with much stirring at particularly high tempo and probably with some agitation or excitement. Concentrated effort may be brought to bear on breaking up long static conditions in order to make way for important new ventures. This may cause sudden upsets and upheavals, with matters materializing quite unexpectedly. The state of health may also prove a disturbing factor.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year, with much stirring of a surprising and unpredictable nature. These may involve radical change in plans, objectives and possibly in environs, preliminary to the shattering of old congestions so that more definite progress of a constructive trend may be engineered. It may take drastic action, perseverence and fortitude to cope with deep-seated inertia or restrictions. Be careful with the health. Elders may prove difficult.

A child born on this day may have much intellectual vigor and versatilty, being alert, brilliant and keen as well as studious, profound and original. It may also be temperamental, emotional and restive.

Seedlings brought from Spain by Franciscan missionaries many years ago are responsible for peach trees which bloom each year on the floor of Canyon de Chelly, in the remote Navajo Indian reservation, Arizona.

Rug exports from Iran, the official name of Persia, to the United States average $3,000,000 a year.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Incidentally, you're a brick," she murmured. "If you hadn't played up, I don't know what might have happened."

As she spoke, she drew me down the hall out of earshot of the attic door.

"How did you know there was somebody up there?" I asked, still bewildered.

"You know that old mirror that stands besides the clothes closet?" she asked.

"Yes," I answered breathlessly. "Do you mean you saw somebody in it?"

"Not exactly," she answered. "But I distinctly saw the curtains across that alcove moving slightly, and there was no window open, so I got my eyes busy, and saw an eye applied to the rent in the curtains, and a part of a hand holding the two drapes together. So I decided it was high time we took it on the lam out of there."

"Oh!" I said lamely, then added excitedly. "But ought we not to let the men know?"

"Of course, when it's necessary," she said cooly. "There's no hurry—whoever's up there is safe until dark, and we've got to check up on everybody first. "Dicky, Harry and your father are in your father's wing. Noel and Mary are on the balcony—I can see Noel's head. Now if you'll take the nursery and your mother-in-law, I'll check on our royal visitors and prize pest, Ede" —she lowered her voice to an almost inaudible murmur, but a grimace told me that her caustic reference was heartfelt — "and I'll also run down and see that Katie and Jim are where they ought to be. When we've eliminated everybody in the farmhouse, and asked the Chief if he has a secret guard stationed in the attic, which I know he hasn't then it will be time to get our men into action."

I rose to my feet with alacrity, glad to be doing something to help.

"Meet me back here when you've finished," Lillian said, turning toward Queen Olga's suite, and I went swiftly to my mother-in-law's door and shamelessly listened at her keyhole, for she is an audible sleeper, and she was suposed to be taking her afternoon nap.

She was, I decided, after a second's eavesdropping, and went swiftly back to the nursery, where I knocked softly and spoke in swift undertones to Katharine when she came to the door.

"Are the children all here?" I asked.

"All three of 'em," she answered. "Want to see them?"

"No, nor do I want them to know I am here," I returned. "I am just checking something for Lillian. Please keep them in the nursery until one of us gives you the word."

"Any danger?" she asked quickly.

'Not now," I said. "Lillian thinks someone is hiding in the attic, but the door is heavily bolted."

"I'll hold this one when you go," she said, "and fasten the other doors and windows. Then I'll keep the children busy until you give me the sign that 'all's clear'."

"I'll bring it back the minute I have it," I told her, and went back to the seat near my father's door where Lillian had bidden me wait. It was less than a minute before she joined me.

"Nobody missing on my list," she said. "How about yours?"

"Everybody accounted for," I returned, and her face lengthened.

"I had hoped it was Jim or the small boys," she said, "but this means we've got to go back to your father. Well, we might as well get it over with," and, pulling at my hand, she drew me up beside her.

"I'd almost rather face a firing squad," she whispered, as she knocked at my father's door. "The Chief's had so many complications in this mess that I hate to add another to it."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GETTING OFF CHEAPLY

Some hands are of such a borderline nature that you hate to pass them, especially in third-hand position, yet fear you may get into trouble if you bid them. This is true especially of those containing two suits, but rarely enough honor strength to justify bidding at all. Your prime purpose with these should generally be to show your partner both suits, hoping one will fit him, but to do it the cheapest possible way, not forcing the bidding a bit higher than necessary. To do this, you should be willing to forego any effort to present an exact picture as to the length of the suits.

1. ♠A Q 3 2 ♥K Q 4 3 2 ♦3 2 ♣3 2
2. ♠A Q 4 3 2 ♥K J 9 4 3 2 ♦2 ♣2
3. ♠A Q 3 2 ♥3 2 ♦K Q 3 2 ♣4 3 2
4. ♠A Q 3 2 ♥4 3 2 ♦K Q 3 2 ♣3 2
5. ♠4 3 2 ♥A Q 3 2 ♦3 2 ♣K Q 3 2
6. ♠3 2 ♥A Q 3 2 ♦4 3 2 ♣K Q 3 2

If you open such doubtful hands, as you are most likely to do in third or fourth-hand positions, after your partner has passed, and will sometimes do against weak opponents in the first two positions, your job is easy if you have "touching" suits, such as spades and hearts, hearts and diamonds or diamonds and clubs. Bid the higher-ranking one first, even if it is-one card shorter, so that when you show the other at two, your partner may choose without getting you to three.

There is also no difficulty if you have spades and clubs; bid the clubs first and then, if your partner answers with diamonds or hearts, bid your spades.

With two such suits which are neither adjoining nor farthest apart, your problem is harder, unless you know what many experts have learned. Since your partner's most frequent response will be in your shortest suit, open with the suit immediately below it. Thus, on Nos. 1 and 2 bid 1-Spade; on No. 3, 1-Diamond; on No. 4 1-Spade; on No. 5, 1-Club; on No. 6, 1-Heart. You will gain by that choice much oftener than you will lose

Tomorrow's Problem.

♠K 10 5 ♥J 6 ♦Q J 9 5 4 ♣A 10 6

♠A 8 7 3 ♥8 7 5 2 ♦K 10 ♣K 9 4 — ♠Q 9 4 2 ♥K Q 4 ♦8 7 2 ♣7 5 2

(N. W. E. S.)

♠J 6 ♥A 10 9 3 ♦A 6 3 ♣Q J 8 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart here, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, West leading the spade 3 and dummy playing the 5, what is East's correct play and why?

About 70 per cent of the land of American Samoa is forest.

It's Been a Long, Hard Trail, But Thorpe's Going Strong

By SAM JACKSON

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Jim Thorpe, the Indian who has often heard himself acclaimed "the greatest athlete that ever lived," has just passed the age of 50, and to use his own expression, he's "still carrying the ball."

* * * * *

Thorpe is living obscurely here, for he has a wife and four small children to support and life has not always been easy.

* * * * *

But reporters who check up on periodical reports that big Jim is down and out and discouraged find him with head held high and no signs of undernourishment. He was able to grin philosophically when found a few years ago digging ditches at $4 a day, and with brighter prospects he can grin today.

Specifically, "the champ of champs" is writing his life story and has several publishers interested. He also is booked to give a number of lectures before schools in the East and has an offer to make personal appearances in Australia. At the height of his fame he spurned a personal appearance tour on the stage. What he'd like is a coaching job.

During the decade of 1910-20 Thorpe was an athletic idol. He was at or near the top in football, baseball, basketball, hockey, and notably in the string of diverse track and field events that make up the decathlon.

Still carrying the ball—never harder. . ."

"With brighter prospects he can grin today."

His greatest triumph probably was at the 1912 Olympic games at Stockholm, where he won both the decathlon and pentathlon. Americans knew him also as the greatest of Carlisle's football players and as a professional baseball player for the New York Giants.

Thorpe was center of a bitter sports controversy when a cheap snapshot turned up showing that he had once played professional baseball in the Carolina-Eastern league. His Olympic trophies were ordered returned.

* * * * *

When the Giants, and later the Boston Braves, were through with Thorpe, the big Indian drifted into various pursuits. For a time he recruited fellow Indians for the moving pictures, then got a number of roles himself and is still occasionally given a part.

* * * * *

Like many another aspiring actor with a family to support, he has had now and then to go out and bring in some money by day labor.

"It's been a long trail and a hard one," he'll tell you, "but I'm still carrying the ball—never harder than now at 50."

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY M'LEMORE

SEBRING—(U.P.)—The New York Yankee foundation for the rehabilitation of fallen pitchers is about ready to effect another remarkable cure.

In a month or so, I feel quite safe in announcing, Patient No. 141, one Lee Grissom, will be completely healed. Proof that the renowned Yankee cure was progressing in Grissom's case was furnished on Saturday by Grissom himself, when he pitched five scoreless innings against the St. Louis Cardinals.

When the Cincinnati Reds let him go last winter Grissom seemed to be a pitcher who had gone to the well once too often. He had won but 11 games in two full seasons with the Reds and his pitches had just about as much on them as a strip teaser. He was filled with miseries and a deep melancholy, and it was a good bet that 1940 would find him settled down to a career of operating a filling station or managing a pub or one of the other kindred endeavors which seem to have such a strong fascination for finished ball players.

Then the New York Yankee foundation took an interest in him. Almost immediately the sparkle returned to his left arm and both his right and left eyes. One by one his miseries flew from him, as doves from a cote, and his blanket of melancholy lifted as though it were a fog, touched by the sun.

By the time patient Grissom reached the foundation's winter clinic in St. Petersburg, and chief diagnostician Joe McCarthy had his first look at him, he was a picture of health and high spirits, and needed only a leopard skin to double for Lionel Strongfort.

If Grissom is completely cured by the Yankee foundation he won't be the first to have responded to the remarkable treatment. Red Ruffing once was a patient. He came from the Boston Red Sox bearing a case history that was packed with defeats and very few victories. In 1928 and 1929 with the Red Sox Ruffing lost 47 games. The bracing air of Yankee stadium worked wonders for him.

Monte Pearson is another who threw away his crutches once he slipped into a Yankee uniform. Monte won only eight games for Cleveland in 1935 But had 19 victories for New York a year later.

Bump Hadley, formerly of Washington, and Oral Hildebrand, once of St. Louis and Cleveland, are others who were rejuvenated by the Yankee foundation.

* * *

You know, I think I'll pitch for the Yankees during my vacation this summer. I could do with a little toning up myself.

Peeved at Experts, Louis May Take It Out on Rival Friday

Heavyweight Champion Doesn't Like the Way the Boxing Men Have Been Riding Him.

By SID FEDER

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y.—(AP)—It seems that Joe Louis reads the newspapers.

Some weeks ago he read where the boxing experts, after watching him wade through 15 dismal rounds with Arturo Godoy, thought he was something less than terrific. He found out that some of the smart boys even knew how to spell "b-u-m" on their typewriters, and that a lot of them believed he was slipping like that cake of soap on the bathroom floor.

So Joe figures he has a bone to pick with the "experts." And he and his handlers tip you off that he's going to pick it clean in Madison Square Garden when he fights Johnny Paychek Friday.

Now Johnny is a nice enough young fellow, so its too bad he has to meet up with the bomber when he wants to bomb. Joe is in the same frame of mind just now, and training just as fiercely, as when he was preparing to tangle with Max Schmeling the second time.

"Yeah," said one of his handlers after he watched Joe raise lumps on a set of sparring partners, "I wouldn't be s'prised at all if Mistah Joe knocks Paychek right back in a lot of laps jes' to show 'em."

The same general idea was conveyed by Jimmy Braddock after looking at Joe's latest workout.

"I've seen Joe work for almost every fight since he beat me three years ago, and I've never seen him more aggressive than he is right now. He figures, if I'm any judge, that he's gonna do a little punching Friday night."

Joe still refuses to call the round. He did that once—in his first appointment with Schmeling—and there was something slightly wrong somewhere.

* * *

"Y'know," he said, "I'm always trying to get it over with quick, and I ain't changin' that now. No use foolin' round—'specially this time."

Chicago Bowler Edges Out Rival by Two Pins.

DETROIT—(AP)— Judging from scores posted to date in the American Bowling Congress tournament, Chicago appears to be emerging as the nation's bowling stronghold.

Of the 20 top places in the standings, half are held by Chicago teams and individuals. The Chicagoans were in the vanguard of a week-end assault on the maples which created major changes in every division.

The honor of scoring the best individual performance to date, however, fell to Marty Cassio of Elizabeth, N. J., who jumped into the lead in both the singles and the all-events Saturday.

In Sunday's firing, Nick De Grazia of Chicago rolled up a 688 total for second place in the singles shortly after a fellow townsman, Charley Bunn had tallied 686. Joe Schaffek and Anton Novak, Chicago, paced the doubles with 1,258 for second place and Vince Fowler rolled 1,839 for a fourth-place tie in the all-events.

Cleveland Club Faces Phillies

Mike Naymick Touched for Five Hits in Loss to Indianapolis.

MIAMI BEACH — (U.P.) — The Cleveland Indians meet the Philadelphia Phillies today. The Tribe trounced the Phillies a week ago.

The Indians finally mustered a batting attack yesterday with nine hits off Indianapolis pitchers, but lost 8-4 when their pitching and defense fell apart. The nine hits were their second largest hit total of the training season.

Pitcher Mike Naymick was the victim. He was touched for five runs in the seventh inning on five hits and his own wild throw to third base.

Beau Bell got two good singles for the Indians. Hal Trosky, who went into the game in the ninth, drove the ball about 500 feet into right field. It would have been a home run in any other park but the fielder was able to run back and get it.

Dr. F. J. Schmoldt told Lou Boudreau, Indian shortstop, that he must leave the cast on his left ankle another week. Boudreau suffered a fracture last Wednesday.

Reds Held To Tie By Cubans

Battle to 4-4 Deadlock in 10-Inning Affair.

WEST PALM BEACH — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds were scheduled to meet the Rochester Red Wings of the International league today.

The Reds closed their series in Havana, Cuba, Sunday, with a 4-4, ten-inning tie with the Cuban All-Stars. The game was called to allow the Reds to catch a boat.

In the three games played in Havana, the Reds had one victory, one defeat and one tie.

Adolfo Luque, who once pitched for the Reds, showed that he still knows a trick or two. While he pitched for the Cuban team yesterday, he had the Cincinnati club popping out.

Turner, Thompson and Beggs pitched for Cincinnati and gave 11 hits.

Johnny Vander Meer was to pitch for the Reds today. Although Manager Bill McKechnie would like to send him to the minors, the ex-dazzler probably will remain with Cincinnati because it would be difficult to get all the clubs in the National league to waive on him.

Masked Men Meet Tonight

Steele, Reynolds Clash in Opening Bout.

The long awaited unmasking of one of the two weird masked wrestlers who have been spreading terror among the lightheavy and junior-heavyweights of this section for the past several weeks will come to pass tonight in the Armory when they meet in a two out of three falls match with no time limit on the contest.

* * *

Tonight's match will probably set a new high for rough wrestling, inasmuch as both are past masters at the gentle art of "killing" the other guy off, and neither will be likely to pull his punches tonight. It's strictly a survival of the fittest and with no time limit on the match it'll be a battle to the death and that might work out literally.

Two other great matches tonight send Jimmy Heffner the classy Texan and his great hold the Indian Choker against tough "Tuffy" Cleet of Oklahoma over the 45-minute route while the opener will pit Bob Steele, local lad against Davey Reynolds.

Bob, who is the smallest is a bantamweight, while Emery performs in the 126-pound class, and Dick is entered in the welterweight division. The meet, which continues Wednesday and Friday nights, will get under way at 7:30 o'clock each night.

Cubs Hit Winning Streak To Capture 'Grapefruit' Lead

(By Associated Press)

THE top team in baseball's semi-serious grapefruit league, you may be surprised to learn, is Gabby Hartnett's Chicago National league combination.

* * *

The Cubs won seven straight games last week with an outbreak of long distance hitting that disturbed seismographs back in the east and set the scientists to blaming sun spots again.

The Chicago boys weren't supposed to have much this spring except Dizzy Dean and a sense o' humor, but it developed they had a rookie named Dominic Dallessandro who is 5 feet 6 inches of dynamite at the plate.

It was a good thing, in a way, that the Cubs came along with their unfathomable streak in the west coast because it kept the St. Louis Browns from taking over the league lead.

The standings:

Club	Inter-League	Intra-League	All Games
Chicago Cubs	5-2	2-0	8-2
St. Louis Browns	6-0	2-0	8-2
Boston Red Sox	7-2	2-0	8-3

DETROIT DEFEATS AMERKS IN HOCKEY PLAY-OFF

(By United Press)

Stanley Cup competition — The world series of the National Hockey league—was down to four teams today.

The Detroit Red Wings eliminated the New York Americans 3-1 in the series C finale last night. The Boston Bruins took a 2-1 edge in their best of seven series, by defeating the New York Rangers, 4-3 at Boston.

Training Camp Notes

ST. PETERSBURG — If Joe McCarthy makes any changes in his New York Yankees squad this spring, one of them probably will be the dropping of Oral Hildebrand, one of the club's best relief pitchers last season. The veteran was belted hard by the St Louis Cardinals yesterday and hasn't shown much pep or enthusiasm in any of his appearances. He may be replaced by a lively rookie, possibly Tommy Reis.

* * *

WEST PALM BEACH—Believing that the only possible cure for Johnny Vander Meer's wild pitching is work, Manager Bill McKechnie called him for duty against Rochester today. The Deacon still has hopes that Vandy will come through, despite his slump last year and his failure to show any impressive performance this spring.

* * *

SAN FRANCISCO — Johnny Babich is perking up on the pitching mound for the Philadelphia Athletics. The veteran hurler, who was brought up from Kansas City, shut out Pittsburgh in a five-inning trick yesterday, giving only four hits. His curve ball looked especially good.

* * *

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Joe Vosmik, the ex-American Leaguer who looks like the answer to the Brooklyn Dodgers' prayer for a .300 hitter, is doing it as well as expected. Three hits in nine yesterday gave him a .625 average for the last two exhibitions.

MIAMI BEACH — When Cleveland's Indians break camp after Wednesday's game, Lou Boudreau, Mel Harder, Johnny Allen and Paul O'Dea will be left behind. They are scheduled to remain at Fort Myers in the charge of Coach Johnny Bassler and to rejoin the tribe on its northward tour at Jacksonville, April 2.

BRADENTON, Fla. — There was a lot of good news for Bostons Red Sox as they met the Bees today in the second 'city series' game. Manager Joe Cronin was cheered by Jim Bagby's six-inning no hit pitching against the Giants yesterday and said the three successive hits by Bobby Doerr, Jim Tabor and George Lacy was the club's best showing at bat since March 16. In addition, Dom DiMaggio now is able to run a little without favoring his injured ankle.

BAND TRAVELS TOO

IOWA CITY —(AP)— Iowa athletes aren't the only ones on the campus. The university band of 85 pieces made a seven-day tour this spring during which they played 17 concerts.

CAPTAIN CITY

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(AP)— There must be something about these basketball players from Chicago. Six of the eight regulars on Notre Dame's squad have been from the Windy City.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The salad was on the table. The ice in the goblets of water had melted and Mrs. Epperson was fussing about it.

"I might as well have stayed with my sister another hour," she complained. "Here I rush home so that dinner can be on time and SHE's late. That's the trouble with this house You can never tell what she is going to do."

"Mrs. Lambert said she would be back in time for dinner," Star said. "I feel sure she will be here soon."

"I don't see why she had to tear out of here like that after she'd just gotten home. She went down the driveway like a bat out of hades."

Star did not reply. She was in no mood for conversation. But she had taken a bath and changed to one of the light frocks Nina liked for her to wear in the evening. Now that the excitement of seeing Milton was over, she felt dull and tired.

Nothing that Nina could do or say would change things. Tomorrow Milton would be on his way to Paris. Star wished that she might escape, too. It would help to get on a ship or a train and travel far away.

But there was no such solution for her. She must stay and continue with her work. Typing Nina's stories that always ended happily. So different from real life where your difficulties went on and on. You didn't fall in love and live happily ever after. You fell in love and suffered.

Oh, well, it was all over now. Nothing more to expect, ever. When Milton returned from Paris with his wife, they might drop in sometimes to see Nina He might even come there alone, but it would never again mean anything to Nina's secretary. She would greet him pleasantly and pass the cocktails; if Jennifer were with him, she would have to endure the amused triumph of Jennifer's eyes, but Milton wouldn't dare to look at her.

Star went to the window and stared down the street but there was no sign of Nina's car. Suddenly she felt that she could bear it no longer. She couldn't sit there waiting for Nina to return. Putting on a coat, she entered the kitchen.

"I don't want any dinner, Mrs. Epperson. Please tell Mrs. Lambert that I have gone for a walk."

The housekeeper surveyed her disapprovingly.

"You're getting almost as bad as she is. I never saw so much temperament in my life. You need your dinner, Miss Bright. You're getting thinner every day. You'd better take care of yourself"

"I'm not hungry," Star said, anxious to escape. "But if I am later, I'll fix myself a sandwich."

Mrs. Epperson sniffed and retorted something. Star did not wait to hear. She walked along the dark street aimlessly. It was late in October and a touch of frost was in the air. Most of the leaves had fallen, leaving the bare beauty of naked branches outlined against the sky.

By the time Milton came back from Paris it would be too late to take out his boat. The Adventuress would be deserted just as Star had been

A desire to see the boat again made her turn in that direction. It was a distance of several miles but in her present mood she could walk it easily. She told herself there would be a melancholy satisfaction in watching the little craft rock in her berth. Milton never went there on week nights so she would be unobserved.

Absorbed in her thoughts, Star walked rapidly It seemed only a short time before she reached the yacht harbor and passed down the tethered line When she reached The Adventuress she paused. It was dark and empty. Tugging at the restraining ropes as if impatient to get away.

Dear little boat! How happy the three of them had been together. Just like a family, because the cruiser seemed like a person, too.

There was a lump in Star's throat as she remembered how Milton had said that his wife had never seen it. The Adventuress and her memories belonged to Star. It was the only thing unmarred by Jennifer's touch and Star told herself she would have been willing to give up everything else. Jennifer could have had his name and bank accounts—all those things which meant so much to her—if only Star could have had this boat and Milton. If they could have gone abroad and sailed away.

A car was coming. She'd better go. A deserted yacht harbor was no place for a girl to be alone at night

"Good-bye" she whispered and started back, but as she walked, the lights of the approaching car were turned full upon her, blinding her. Then she heard Milton's voice.

"Why, Star, what are you doing down here?"

Confused and angry at herself, she cried, "Does it matter?"

"Of course it matters," he replied, parking his car. But she had walked on so that he had to run to catch up with her.

"Where are you going now?" he demanded.

"Home. Let me alone, Milton, Please. I didn't come down here to see you."

"Well, I didn't expect to see you, either," he admitted. "I told Nina I wanted to be alone. To think things over."

"I haven't seen Nina," she confessed, but something in his voice made her tremble. "I left before she came home."

He took her arm and led her back toward his boat.

"Now that you're here, you don't think I'm going to let you go?"

Star did not speak until they were inside the lighted cabin, then she said, "I don't know what Nina has said to you, but whatever it is I had nothing to do with it."

His face was grimmer than she had ever seen it, but his tone was gentle.

"Don't you think I know that? You haven't any idea, have you?"

Star shook her head, leaning against a table for support.

"Sit down," Milton suggested. "It isn't easy—what I am going to say. I wanted to think this over because it was such a shock." He fumbled in a drawer for his pipe and as he filled it she saw that his hands, too, were shaking.

"Isn't it strange," he asked bitterly, "how every one else in the world can know things except the one most concerned? I've seen it happen so many times, but I never expected it to happen to me."

She waited breathlessly, afraid to guess what he was trying to say.

"Nina tells me that my wife has been traveling all over Europe with a wealthy man who owns a racing stable. She has been staying at the same hotels with him, posing as his wife. Registered under his name."

His eyes, shamed and angry, met hers but she did not dare to comfort him.

"Nina would never have told me if she hadn't overheard our conversation this afternoon. It does something to me I can't explain. That's why I wanted to be alone"

He added, "I suspected that Jennifer didn't love me but I trusted her. What a fool you must think me."

THEATERS

An entertainment feature in the way of being different is now released entitled "Berth of a Queen," featuring unusual scenes of the step-by-step building and launching of the Queen Elizabeth, the world's largest ocean-going vessel. Coming on the heels of the publicity accorded the maiden voyage of this famous vessel which defied German submarines and lurking mines to find a safe haven in New York Harbor, "The Berth of a Queen" offers something new in a short feature.

Marital Mix-Up.

"Two's Company and Three's a Crowd"—except at the Madison theater where "Too Many Husbands" is proving that "two's company and three's a comedy." Jean Arthur, Fred MacMurray and Melvyn Douglas are starred in the film, a marital mix-up. The unique comedy situations include Jean's inability to explain her changed marital status to her own husband and the determined efforts made by the two husbands to decide who shall retire gracefully from the scene

Gold-Rush Days.

Behind "Virginia City," epic of roaring gold rush days in Nevada and the finding of the famous Comstock lode, lies a story of hardship and difficulty hardly less fascinating in its human appeal than the plot around which the picture was woven. To a location site in the Painted Desert near Flagstaff, Arizona, a company of 800 people was transported for the making of this film, which is showing at the Ohio theater.

Comedy and Drama.

Showing at the Majestic theater beginning Tuesday will be Groucho, Chico and Harpo Marx in "Marx Bros. at the Circus," with Kenny Baker and Florence Rice in the supporting cast. "Let Us Live," with Maureen O'Sullivan, Henry Fonda and Ralph Bellamy is the other feature. This is a story of a young taxi driver and his sweetheart. When a murder is committed by young bandits in the course of a hold-up, eye witnesses identify the cabbie as leader of the gang.

Second Darnell Feature.

Gay comedy and romantic revelry are the keynotes of "Day Time Wife," which is showing at the Ritz theater Tuesday, with Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell costarred. "Twenty-thousand Men a Year," with Randolph Scott, Preston Foster and Margaret Lindsay is the co-feature. The original story by Frank Wead, renowned author of aviation fiction, was inspired by the year-old Civil Aeronautics authority program for training civilian fliers in the nation's colleges and universities.

Plays Own Role.

Five melodic dance tunes of hit-parade caliber are the musical features of "That's Right-You're Wrong" with Kay Kyser in the lead, co-starred with Adolph Menjou. The songs are "The Answer is Love," "Happy Birthday To Love," "Fit to be Tied," "Chatterbox," and "The Little Red Fox." The second feature at the Park theater is "South of the Border," with Gene Autry playing the lead.

Wealthy Georgia Convict On Way Back To Prison.

DALLAS, Tex —(AP)— Richard Gray Gallogly, scion of a prominent Georgia family, has been started back in chains to the Georgia prison from which he fled nearly six months ago, hopeful that his story would induce Texas officials to prevent his extradition.

Gallogly had said that he pleaded guilty in connection with two murder cases only because he wanted to save a companion from the death sentence.

AIR TRANSPORT STOCKS GIVEN BOOST IN MART

American Airlines, National Aviation Edge Into New High Ground.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Aviation transportation stocks were given another boost in today's market but many leaders were neglected.

Edging into new high ground for the year or longer were American Airlines, national aviation and Pan American Airways.

Bonds lacked definite trends as did commodities European securities markets were still closed for Easter, reopening tomorrow.

Most traders found little in the domestic news picture or European war developments of a stimulating nature.

Market sentiment was given a mild lift by the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that steel buying shows further moderate improvement with main support resulting from inventory depletion by domestic consumers and from foreign markets.

Senate Starts Debate on Reciprocal Trade Program

NEW DEALERS PREDICT PLAN WILL WIN O. K.

Proposed Senate Ratification on All Agreements to Form First Major Test.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate begins debate today on the reciprocal trade program with administration leaders predicting a small but safe margin for extending it three years in the form requested by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The major test—one that will line up Republicans and some Democrats together—will be on a proposal to subject agreements to the senate for ratification. However, administration senators have polled the membership and said that they would have a five-vote margin on that question.

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee opens debate for the bill and probably will be followed by Chairman Key Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee who seeks to require senate ratification by a two-thirds vote.

The reciprocal trade debate, which Republicans promise to make an important part of their presidential campaign ammunition this year, will highlight a week of important moves in congress against the administration's labor, economy and national defense plans.

Sale of American-made warplanes to Britain and France will be thoroughly aired probably in both the senate and house. A committee of the former decides today whether to order an inquiry; a house committee will begin questioning high officials of the war department about allied sales policies as soon as Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring is ready to testify.

Board Under Fire.

The National Labor Relations board, under fire in the house where a showdown on amendment of the Wagner Labor act is near, will be target of its opponents tomorrow when the 1941 appropriation bill for that agency comes up. Majority members of the house committee investigating the board seek to curtail some of its activities by restricting the use of its funds.

The drive for economy in appropriations to avoid either new taxes or an increase in the limit of the national debt is headed for a severe setback in the house which is expected to approve the senate's version of the farm bill. It exceeds the budget recommendations and wipes out all previous appropriation savings of this session.

Five Days Left For Motorists To Get New Tags On

Mansfield motorists will have just five days after today to buy their 1940 license plates before the deadline next Saturday night. Although the month ends on Sunday, no tags will be sold on Sunday, according to orders issued today by Cylon W. Wallace, state registrar.

The office of the Mansfield deputy registrar will close at 8 p. m. next Saturday, Jack Berger, office assistant, said today. However, the new plates are not mandatory until after midnight Sunday night. Wallace said today there would be no extension of the time because of the Sunday deadline.

Up to this morning 5,330 passenger car plates had been sold at the Mansfield office, a little more than half of the estimated 10,000 for the month of March. Berger said that this figure was about 1,500 ahead of the number sold in the same period last year. This leaves 1,670 to be sold this week if the estimated figure is reached.

The Mansfield office will be open every day from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. with a staff of 11 workers to handle the sales. It was expected that there would be the usual last-minute rush, despite the increase in sales

Up and Down THE STREET

A record of long standing remained unbroken today as Boy Scouts of the Johnny Appleseed area opened their 19th annual spring camping period at Gattons Rocks, near Bellville, in near-zero weather. For the past ten years the weather on opening day of spring camp has been anything but spring-like, according to Floyd Dent, scout executive, and this year was no exception. In the ten-year period it has either been cold or snowing on opening day, Dent recalled.

One Mansfield woman, who wishes to remain unnamed, has found a way to celebrate Easter which gives her a lot more pleasure than a new outfit or giving colored eggs to youngsters. For several years past she has sent blooming plants to shut-ins who would not otherwise have this treat. This year, through the Visiting Nurses association, she sent gift plants to 28 shut-ins.

What Elmer Earick, 132 Hedges street, can't understand is why he can't have a horn on his car that sounds like "a sick cow" when he blows it. He pleaded innocent to a charge of disturbing the peace in municipal court this morning and was given a $5 suspended sentence, but warned by the court that only one horn was necessary and then only to be sounded when necessary. Patrolman William Colby said he arrested Earick Saturday night after several persons had complained about the continuous blowing of the horn that sounded, they said, like "a sick cow."

Although the temperature was far from spring-like yesterday, signs of spring were in evidence in Richland county—and it wasn't from the Easter parade that these observations were made. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Huffman, 234 Harker street, motoring south of Mansfield near Lexington yesterday, reported that they observed the "first" bluebirds of the spring. They saw a flock of six, they said.

RULES IN RACE WIRE LAW SUIT

U. S. Judge Gives Government Permission to File Briefs to Fight Injunction.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin today granted a government request to file briefs in an injunction action involving Western Union Telegraph Co. service to William N. Hamilton, Youngstown representative of the Empire News service of Cleveland.

The court gave Emerich B. Freed, district attorney, until April 2 to submit briefs supporting the government's contention that Hamilton's agency serves bookmaking establishments with horse race information.

Freed indicated he also would file affidavits as evidence that subscribers to Hamilton's service were engaged in illegal enterprises.

Hamilton obtained a temporary order Feb. 26 restraining Western Union from suspending its ticker service. Western Union moved for dissolution of the order March 2, asserting "the Ohio statute prohibited the maintenance of establishments where wagers of any kind are made is meant to prohibit gambling, and * * * the service which Mr. Hamilton renders to these gambling establishments * * * tends to encourage the violation of that statute."

The Youngstown man's attorneys argued that newspapers disseminate "the identical type of news" which his agency furnishes and that "the legality of the transmission of said news by mail and in interstate commerce has never been challenged."

The temporary injunction Hamilton obtained continues in effect pending the court's ruling on the dissolution motion.

CLAIM FOREIGN PLANE SALES HELPING U. S. ECONOMY DRIVE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Foreign purchases of warplanes are helping the faltering congressional drive for economy by enabling the army to cut down on the acquisition of spare aircraft and engines.

This was disclosed today by members of the house military appropriations subcommittee at the same time that army officials announced the big job of storing up piles of "strategic materials"—ores, rubber, fibers—as "war insurance" was nearing completion.

The house committeemen said the army itself had recommended that the major proportion of 496 planes requested for reserve purposes be eliminated from a pending bill.

They explained that this country's aircraft productive capacity is almost triple what it was six months ago, when the army prepared its budget estimates for the year starting July 1. Thus, the air corps could replace its first line planes in one-third the time originally required, even if it had to start from scratch.

Actually, initial replacements could be made almost immediately, they said, by commandeering whatever military planes the manufacturers had on hand for foreign governments.

Economy advocates counted heavily on the foreign buying to help them lop $50,000,000 off the army supply bill. In addition to savings on the reserve planes, they hoped to cut out most, if not all, of the $16,250,000 for so-called "educational orders" to familiarize private industry with munitions making.

Rep. Collins (D-Miss.) who pioneered for mechanization of the army, complained today that the war department was increasing the cost of rearmament by demanding equipment, such as automotive supplies, "tailor-made," instead of accepting commercial products.

"This policy is rapidly making national defense too expensive for the taxpayers to bear," he said.

SALES TAX OFF

County Collections Show Drop for Week Ending March 9.

Showing a decline for the first time in several weeks, Richland county sales tax receipts for the week ending March 9 dropped off $1,943 from collections for the corresponding week last year.

Collections for the week this year were $9,458 as compared with $11,401 in 1939, State Treasurer Don Ebright reported.

The county's receipts to the second week in March this year, however, were still approximately 18 per cent ahead of last year.

GANG LEADER'S 'SONG' LEADS TO MORE ARRESTS

Quiz 'Tough Guy' About 30 Assassinations by Murder For Fee Syndicate.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Gangster Abe Reles, a "tough guy" before he visualized himself in the electric chair, babbled of death and the double cross today and reportedly had named the men who killed Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer, one of gangdom's most powerful figures.

Reles' "singing" already had caused the arrest of three men and as he talked in a secret hideaway where authorities held him for his own protection, he added new professional murders to the record of "Murder, Inc.," the Brooklyn gang held responsible by Kings county District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer for 30 assassinations for fees.

Three men were arraigned yesterday as a result of Reles' "song." Max (Maxie the Jerk) Golob, 29, was held without bail when arraigned on a murder charge. Albert Tannenbaum, 34, and Charles Workman, 30, were held in $25,000 bail each on vagrancy charges and it was understood both would be turned over to Sullivan county, N. Y., authorities.

Sullivan county was a favorite spot for the gang's murders. There the victims were slain with ice picks or guns by the gang's trigger men who sometimes emerged from the transaction with but a one dollar profit. Tannenbaum, who has a police record and a reputation as a trigger man, will be questioned about the murder of Irving Ashkenas, Brooklyn taxi-driver with many other interests, who was slain in September, 1936 in Sullivan county.

Identified By Woman.

Golob was accused of assisting in the killing of John (Spider) Murtha, an ex-convict, in Brooklyn. Frank (the Dasher) Abbandano, 30, also is being held for the Murtha slaying. Both were identified as the killers by Florence Nestfield, 28, who was walking with Murtha when the killers approached, waved her aside, and shot him.

Three other men are named with Tannenbaum in Sullivan county indictments and another is listed as presently unknown. Irving (Big Gangi) Cohen, now a Hollywood bit player arrested in California and fighting extradition; Harry (Pittsburgh Phil) Strauss, now in a Brooklyn jail, are accounted for; Jacob Drucker is being sought in New York and Florida and the fifth man is unknown or his identity unrevealed in the indictment. In addition to the Ashkenas slaying, they are accused in the indictment of killing Walter Sage, a killer in the Reles gang, who was eliminated when he got to know too much.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I think glamor is half self-confidence, half Schiaparelli, and I think Marlene Dietrich is the most glamorous woman I've ever seen. She looks interesting in Grand Central Station at 8:55 a. m. on a cold morning. . . Escalators never go fast enough for me. I always run up them. . . George S. Kaufman, the playwright, and Paul Hartman, the dancer, are the only Broadwayites I know who still slumber in those old-fashioned nightgowns that get such howls when you see them in the movies. In summer, Paul switches to a gay colored pajama coat.

I can't name five night club stars who were born in New York City—I can't even name five people who were . . . I love "whodunits" in the theater—I even had gooseflesh fun at "Goodbye in the Night" which made the critics yawn . . . I notice that most of the people who drink too many daiquiris and cut up in night clubs are over 45.

I would be enchanted to hear George Bernard Shaw's comment on the rhumba, Hitler's on Lindy's, and Carrie Chapman Catt's on the Stork club. . . . I loathe people who zip through revolving doors at a homicidal pace . . . Those bistros with palm trees and guitars are all right with me. I love the tropics, even the Times Square kind . . . I don't think most comedians are very funny.

I predict Sir Neville Henderson's forthcoming book, "Failure of a Mission," which I've just read, will be a best seller. The former British ambassador to Berlin writes more like an ace reporter than most ace reporters.

Orson Welles confuses me when he does too many characters on the radio. I always know it's Orson.

The seats at the Broadhurst theater are as hard as the ones at the Astor . . . My current favorite movie short is Donald Duck's "The Dog Laundry" . . . Funny how people who never used to ride in planes wouldn't cross the ocean any other way now that the war's on—the planes are so much "safer" than liners.

Most places need people in them—the World's Fair looks like the dreariest place in the world in its state of winter desertedness . . . I am very unhappy when looking at a man in a pink shirt, even Charles Boyer.

I love horseraces, even in the newsreels . . . Richard Haydn, the British comedian, makes me giggle, but I don't know what his Boy Scout sketch in "Two for the Show" was all about, and I wish he or the author would tell me.

Next to reporters, I think the best quick judges of human nature are night club owners. Sherman Billingsley can spot a "right" person from a "wrong guy" the minute a customer makes an entrance. He will cash a check for one stranger, and won't let another one in. He doesn't know why—says it's experience, not intuition.

I think a covered wagon looks great in one of those cinema sunset shots, but I'd rather ride in an unromantic limousine . . . Funny that the three top swing bandleaders—Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, and Glenn Miller — all wear eyeglasses. It gives them a scholarly look at the most hep-hep moments.

I am not a girl to care for a bodyguard, but if I ever need one I hope he's Detective Johnny Broderick. Jack Dempsey once said if Broderick had gone into the prize ring he'd have been champion of the world.

Hope Hampton is the only girl I know who can go to Florida for the winter and come back looking like Snow White.

I think Winston Churchill should be playing character roles in Hollywood.

I wish Spring would hurry up. I like Central Park best when all the trees are suddenly softly yellow . . . The happiest fellow I ever saw in a night club was Dr. Allan Roy Defoe of Callandar, Ontario. He beams at all kinds of girls — from those named Emilie, Cecile, Yvonne, Annette and Marie to the kind they used to have at the Paradise.

It must be fun to be a girl like Brenda Forbes, the comedienne. Every time she wants to see her family she just goes to a movie—her mother and her brother, Ralph, are practically always playing at one of the neighborhood movie houses.

Nothing's more flattering to a girl than the background of white ice on the Rockefeller Center pond—especially if she can wear a ballet-length skirt and do figure eights.

* * *

Fred Allen always gives dollar bills to fellows who ask for a nickel for a cup of coffee . . . I can't wait to hear Artie Shaw's new records—they're due April 5 . . . The log fire in the lobby at "21" makes it the nicest place in town to wait 15 minutes for your girl to show up, which is why the girls don't mind being late for lunch, I guess . . . At Reuben's they name a sandwich for you if they like you, but at Leone's, Mrs. Leone shows her admiration by naming one of her two dozen kittens after you.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"My Son, My Son!" Screenplay by Lenore Coffee from novel by Howard Spring. Directed by Charles Vidor. Principals: Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne, Louis Hayward, Laraine Day, Henry Hull, Josephine Hutchinson, Sophie Stewart, Bruce Lester, Scotty Beckett.

* * * * *

The rod, belt and cane industries of the country should flourish by this one, with parents by the hundreds leaving the theaters to rush Junior to the woodshed. It will be tough on Junior, who never trucked much to that maxim about rod-sparing and child-spoiling.

The above is intended not as a facetious commentary upon the movie version of this best-selling novel, but rather as a tribute to its power. It is a thoughtful, adult motion picture, well acted and potently directed from a masterly script.

Adaption of a popular novel to the screen is always a difficult job. Readers protest sins of omission and commission, and the scenarist, trying to please those who have and those who haven't read the book, often succeeds only in antagonizing both. Miss Coffee here has taken the story and transcribed it with faith to its spirit rather than to its letter, although the letter too is abundantly retained.

THE story of an over-generous father who ruins his son's life and his own by showering him with all his heart desires, offered many opportunities for a run-of-the-mill movie sob-fest. One of the best features of the production is that all such pitfalls have been skirted. The picture is peopled by believeable, well-rounded and wholly developed characters. And their story moves forward on its own momentum, inevitably.

Brian Aherne's performance makes credible his attitude toward his son. Louis Hayward, aided immeasurably by the child actor Scotty Beckett in the earlier sequences, makes credible a thoroughly despicable son. These are the top acting achievements.

Next, I would put Laraine Day, young girl from Utah who plays the actress-daughter of the hero's life-long friend (Henry Hull.) Miss Day demonstrates abundant emotional talent as well as personal charm. Josephine Hutchinson comes back to the screen in an interesting character assignment, the role of Aherne's wife.

The character of the son, who in the novel died on the gallows, has been given the slightest of regenerations in the film. After playing the heel and the liar throughout, the boy is permitted one scene in which (though his sincerity is still open to question) he admits to his father his realization of his shortcomings. And he is given, besides, a hero's death in battle.

A Bill of Divorcement." Screenplay, by Dalton Trumbo from play by Clemence Dane. Directed by John Farrow. Principals:- Maureen O'Hara, Adolphe Menjou, Fay Bainter, Herbert Marshall, Dame May Whitty, Patric Knowles, C. Aubrey Smith.

* * *

Katherine Hepburn and John Barrymore did it as Hepburn's first screen work. It is equally strong farce today—this story of a girl's sacrifice when she realizes that her family line is tainted by hereditary insanity.

That Menjou should deliver a perfect performance is not news. Neither is Farrow's excellent direction of the compact drama.

The news is Maureen O'Hara. Neither in "Jamaica Inn" nor in "Hunchback of Notre Dame" did the girl evince more than passing talent and surpassing beauty. Here she rises to an emotional role which marks her certainly for immediate stardom.

Report Hull Urges Friends Not to Boost Candidacy

SECRETARY TO STAY CLEAR OF DELEGATE RACE

But Associates Claim He'll Accept Nomination If It's Put Up to Him.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Hull was reported authoritatively today to be urging friends to refrain from boosting him for the Democratic presidential nomination.

These friends expressed the opinion, however, that the 68-year-old cabinet member would feel it a party duty to accept the nomination if it should fall his way.

Well-advised informants said that Hull determined some time ago not to seek any delegates to the Democratic national convention. He was described as believing that any political activity on his part would impair his usefulness as head of the state department.

He told reporters early in January that he had no presidential ambitions.

Several congressmen, it was learned, have wanted to issue statements supporting Hull for the Democratic nomination, but the secretary has requested them to remain silent.

Informed persons said that Hull probably would consider it both a personal and a party obligation to support President Roosevelt if the latter should be nominated for a third term.

Speculation about a ticket composed of Hull and James A. Farley has been active in Washington ever since Farley announced last week that his name would go before the Democratic convention.

Friends of Vice President Garner took cheer from Farley's declaration, because they argued that it showed opposition to the third term movement. They were pleased, too, with a radio address which Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.) delivered Saturday night in behalf of Garner's candidacy.

Making the first major speech in behalf of Garner's campaign, Sheppard said that his fellow Texan had a consistent "liberal record" and had done much to further the New Deal program.

Sheppard said he doubted that anyone else was "better qualified for the presidency."

In the Republican field, this will be a busy week of speech-making. Addresses are listed tonight for Senator Taft (R-Ohio) in Philadelphia and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) in Washington. Chairman Glenn Frank of the party's program committee will speak in St. Louis.

Thomas E. Dewey, who is opposing Vandenberg in the Wisconsin primary April 2, will tour that state late this week after speaking at St. Louis Wednesday and at Chicago Thursday.

cattle truck on route 2, three miles east of Sandusky.

The dead were: Frank Ollom, jr., 20; Daniel Mariani, 18; Louis Mastro, 18, and George F. Galloway, 19, all of Cleveland. They were returning to a camp near Attica after visiting at their homes. The accident occurred about 3:30 a. m.

The truck driver said he was blinded by the headlight of a locomotive on a track parallel to the highway. He was held for questioning by Erie county authorities. The truck struck the automobile from behind.

Paul D. Seger and his wife, Marie, and Earl Heiner, 29, all of Dayton, were killed early today in an automobile-truck crash three miles north of Dayton. Three others were hurt.

The body of young Fineberg, who died yesterday in Mansfield General hospital was taken to Cleveland for funeral services and burial.

The youth, an Ohio State university student, was injured fatally about 4 p. m. Saturday when his car sideswiped a truck and careened off route 61 south of Mt. Gilead. Leo Demsey, 20, of Shaker Heights, riding with Fineberg, received minor injuries. Fineberg had head and chest injuries.

Three persons, including a 12-year-old girl struck by a hit-skip driver, were injured in two accidents in Galion. The child, Norma Jean Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wright, suffered cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries Saturday night when she was struck as she crossed a street in Galion. Witnesses said the driver, who did not stop, drove through a red light.

Kenneth Flick, 22, and Howard Dewalt, both of Galion, were hurt when their cars collided in an alley at the rear of the Galion Elks club. Flick was treated at Samaritan hospital in Galion for a concussion, possible rib fractures, and abdominal injuries. Dewalt received only minor bruises.

Injured on route 42 southwest of Ashland early Sunday was Eddie V. Davidson, 37, of Orrville, whose car turned over four times after skidding off the highway. Davidson, who was not hurt seriously, was treated at Good Samaritan hospital in Ashland.

At Mt. Vernon, the body of Thurman McMahon, 31, of Gambier, was found on the CCC highway. Coroner C. L. Harmer said McMahon apparently had been killed by a train and then run over by an automobile.

Lancaster had three week-end traffic deaths, including A. J. Colgan, 56, a crude oil producer, who died of injuries he received in an accident March 14. The others were Mrs. Anna McDonald, 72, of Athens and Mrs. Laura McElroy, 66, of Ada.

GALION—Ross Sharrock was dismissed from the Good Samaritan hospital Saturday. Mrs. Virgil Baldwin was also dismissed Saturday from the hospital.

SON OF U. S. DIPLOMAT FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO TAKE OWN LIFE

CHICAGO—(INS)—Held at police headquarters for assertedly attempting suicide, 20-year-old Henry Seth Wilson IV, son of the U. S. minister to Uruguay, today told police he was despondent because "I wanted to become a stage singer but my father prevented it."

The youth further declared that he was dissatisfied with his school work at Buckpell university, Lewisburg, Pa.; that he felt badly because "I have no home life," his parents being divorced; and that he objected to a recent suggestion by his father that he buy second-hand instead of new school books.

Passersby last night said they prevented young Wilson from jumping off a bridge into the Chicago river. He had stopped here en route to Bucknell university, where he is a sophomore, after visiting a girl friend at Adams, Wis.

"I didn't want to go to Bucknell, but my father insisted because all members of the family for several generations have attended there," he told police. "I wanted to become a stage singer, but when my father heard of it he prevented anyone from hiring me."

Both his father, Edwin Carleton Wilson, U. S. minister to Uruguay, and his mother, now Mrs. Edward Ersel Steele of New York, have remarried, and the youth said an uncle living at Erie, Pa., acts as his guardian.

Police notified the mother, whose husband, Capt. Edward Ersel Steele, is a former British army officer and now vice president of the Manufacturers Trust Co., New York. Young Wilson, according to police, said he became depressed after having "several drinks."

JURY SESSION DELAYED A DAY

Attorneys Waive Panel, Try Case Involving Traffic Death Before Judge.

A session of the county petit jury scheduled for this morning was postponed until Tuesday when attorneys in a case on today's calendar waived the jury and asked to submit the evidence to Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

In the case the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company seeks to be released of responsibility for payment of damages resulting from a fatal traffic accident two years ago on Lexington avenue, Mansfield.

The insurance firm had issued a policy on a car owned by Paul F. Heineking, Mansfield, which figured in the crash. The company contends that title to the car was changed without the insurer's knowledge.

Attorneys for the insurance firm are Beam and Beam, Mansfield, and Long, Anderson and Green, Shelby. Atty. R. E. Hutchison, Mansfield, and Leuck, Wenrich, and Holm of Cleveland are the defense counsel.

Settlement out of court of a $488 damage suit involving a truck accident last November on route 39 near Springmill removed that case from Tuesday's court schedule. Russell McNeely, Mansfield, sought a judgment for damage to his truck in a collision with a West Universal Dry Cleaning company truck driven by Francis Leemaster of Shelby. Amount of the settlement was not announced. Leemaster, injured seriously, is still in General hospital.

SPRING(?) RECESS

Some 6,300 pupils in the Mansfield public schools today were enjoying the first day of their annual spring vacation, in spite of the winter weather.

Schools were dismissed at noon last Friday and will reopen next Monday. Parochial students, dismissed last Wednesday for vacation, will resume studies Wednesday.

EASES FINANCES

Income Tax Revenues Indicate No New Levies Through 1940.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—High administration officials claimed today that unexpectedly large income tax returns made it probable the treasury could stay under the $45,000,000,000 debt limit without new taxes at least through April, 1941.

This would give the president and congress elected this fall plenty of time, they said, to take whatever action they consider necessary. The debt limit is fixed by law, and congress might be expected either to move it to a higher figure or increase taxes.

Barring unforeseen business developments which would reverse the present favorable revenue aspects or unscheduled big appropriations, the officials continued, the treasury might be able to stay under the debt limit clear through the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1941.

MRS. BLACK, 71, DIES OF STROKE EASTER SUNDAY

Widow of Founder of Ohio Brass Company Stricken as She Entertains Guests.

Baxter and Elizabeth Sharp Baxter. In 1882, five of the nine Baxter brotherrs came to Mansfield and founded the Baxter Stove company and it was in that year that Mrs. Black came to Mansfield. She had lived here ever since.

Married in 1892.

She was graduated from the Mansfield Public schools in 1889 and continued her education at the Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass. On Oct. 5, 1892, she married Frank B. Black.

In the years that followed she worked beside him as he built the Ohio Brass company into one of Mansfield's major industries.

Four sons were born, three of whom survive. They are Robert Blymyer Black, Donald Spencer Black and Roger Antrim Black, all of whom are identified with the industry founded by their father. The first son, John Baxter Black, died in 1923 from tuberculosis which was the result of his World war service.

It was in memory of him that much of Mrs. Black's charitable and community work was done.

One of her earliest interests in the city was the Parent-Teacher association and she took the lead in organizing the first P. T. A. in Mansfield at Brinkerhoff school.

She was on organizer of the Women's association of First Congregational church and served as its president for many years. She was a supporter of the Mansfield Humane society and a member of the society's executive board at the time of her death. Mansfield General hospital held her interest for many years. Her husband was one of the founders of the hospital and Mrs. Black was one of the women who campaigned from door to door in the first campaign for funds for the building.

In January of this year she was elected president of the Mansfield Memorial Library board in which she had been interested for many years, and which inspired one of her best known civic works.

A number of years ago she established the John Baxter Black Memorial Fund for the Public library through which many valuable books are added to the library each year and which also provides the fresh flowers that are in the library continually.

In recent months Mrs. Black redecorated the Sherman room, which is on the second floor of the library, and several years ago, with the Mansfield Memorial library board, redecorated the Larwill room.

She had been a member of First Congregational church since her girlhood. Shortly after the death of her husband she and her sons established a $30,000 memorial fund for the church in Mr. Black's memory. Another endowment had been made prior to that to the Saranac Lake Laboratory, at Saranac Lake, N. Y., in memory of her son who had died at the Saranac hospital.

Mrs. Black was one of the organizers of the Mansfield Garden club, which was the first garden club in the city, and was an early member of the Nomad study club as well as of the Mansfield Charity club. The use of her home on Blymyer avenue, and later the spacious rooms at Raemelton House, was generously given many times to furthering the interests of her clubs and charities.

Besides her sons, Mrs. Black is survived by seven grandsons, and two sisters, Mrs. Albert L. Bliss, Pittsfield, Mass., and Mrs. Kenneth Dirlam, Hamden, Conn. Two uncles, the only survivors of the five who founded the Baxter company here, are Edward Baxter, 177 West Second street, and Berry Baxter, Pasadena, Cal.

Her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Black, left for a motor trip around Florida ten days ago. They are expected to arrive home late tonight.

Funeral services will be held at Raemelton House at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, with her pastor, Rev. Peter Young officiating. Interment will be made at Mansfield cemetery.

Two events scheduled for this week have been called off as the result of Mrs. Black's death. On Tuesday she was to have given over the lounge of Raemelton Riding hall to members of the Tuesday Book club, and their guests. The annual gymkhana program which was to have been staged in the hall Friday night by members of Raemelton Riding club, has been cancelled, according to S. Glenn Vinson, president of the club. Invitations to the affair were mailed out yesterday.

sian peace terms to Finland toward the end of February, it was reported.

Britain had no doubt of Turkey's sincerity in seeking to better Allied-Russian relations. Russia was first among nations to recognize the Turkish republic, and Turkey and Russia had been friends until Turkey cast its lot with the Allies.

But it was understood that Britain would regard any Russian feelers as likely to mean a maneuver to improve Russia's own position. It was held that by one such maneuver Russia apparently used its negotiations with the Allies last summer to reach an agreement with Germany and secure part of Poland and a free hand in the Baltic.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1940.

Don't blame the census taker—he's doing only what he has been told to do, and his job isn't going to be a pleasant one.

It was at just about this time in 1915 that Col. E. M. House was in Europe as an emissary of President Wilson in an effort to stop the war—if you are interested in how history repeats.

Easter's Variable Dates

WHILE the moon's determination of the Easter date is firmly fixed by precedent that has extended through sixteen centuries, this year's experience of an unseasonably early Easter would appear to justify mention of a proposal that was debated in 1582, as to whether Easter should continue to be movable, or observed each year on a fixed Sunday.

When it is considered that the Easter date can now be as early as March 22 or as late as April 25, the actual date of observance appears less important than that it should have the closest possible association with the arrival of spring weather.

It was at the introduction of the Gregorian calendar, about three hundred and fifty years ago, that it was proposed to choose a fixed Sunday for Easter, but deference to ancient custom led ecclesiastical authorities to favor continuance of the paschal full moon as the determining factor.

World-wide observance of Easter would make it difficult, if not impossible, to reach agreement on a change of this custom, unless church authorities should decide that a fixed date would be preferable to the present method, for Easter is very definitely a religious festival, not subject to change in any other way.

Difference in weather conditions during March and April in various parts of the world might also be an influence in this matter, and it may be only in a large part of the United States that a later fixed date—possibly the second Sunday in April—would find favor.

Meanwhile it is interesting to learn that Easter next year will be considerably later and that in 1943 it will fall on April 25—the latest Easter in this century.

Silence In the Far East

AMERICANS naturally wonder what Japan is doing behind what seems like an intentional veil of silence. There is an unusual amount of silence in Washington, too, regarding Japan and China, since the expiration of our trade treaty with Japan.

The most interesting news from that quarter lately has been about the prosecution of an American newspaper man in Tokyo for allegedly spreading false reports about the situation in China. He had represented the Japanese campaign as a failure. Such action suggests abnormal sensitiveness on the part of the militarists in control of the Japanese government.

One thing that Americans would like to know is whether American exports of war materials to Japan are lessening since the treaty expired. Neither our government nor the public liked that business, and it is clearly bad policy to keep on with it.

Nature's Normal Balance

SOME nature-lovers are shocked when a bird of prey kills and eats some smaller creature. They immediately want to set human beings with guns to exterminate the predatory bird.

"That is precisely the thing scientists do not want," says a spokesman of a state wildlife research station. "It is their belief that the layman can best use the ax and shovel instead of the gun, for by providing better food and cover he allows nature to produce a balanced population."

Constant struggle for survival that goes on in nature is tragic only when we see isolated instances of it. Normally a balance is maintained and all the species thrive in their own separate ways. Man's meddling sometimes disturbs the balance, with the result that a whole race is wiped out or one group comes to dominate another with disaster to human economy.

One of the lessons taught by annual National Wildlife Restoration week should be the fact that co-operation with nature is better than ignorant, even when well-meaning, destruction of that balance.

Encouraging Small Economies

SOME people have difficulty in distinguishing between "economy" and "stinginess" and between "thrift" and "penuriousness."

Except for those few who inherit wealth in excess of needs, practically everyone has found it necessary at some time in life to cultivate habits of economy and thrift in order to eventually own a home or acquire other desired possessions.

New York City employes were recently asked to submit suggestions on ways to save public money. One suggestion awarded a $5 prize was: "Attach pull cords to all lights in city buildings so that only those actually needed will be used."

In an era of unexampled expenditure of public money this may seem a small matter—but to impress thousands of public employes with the idea of avoiding waste, whenever possible, is well worthwhile.

No Substitute for Reading

A NEWSPAPER MAN, noting the fad for book reviews, wonders what it's all about. "We listen to a great many talks about books," he says, "but I doubt if this apparent interest in literature is reflected by a corresponding increase in sales at book shops."

It seems, sometimes, as if many people think seeing a movie based on a book, or hearing a more or less competent book review, is as satisfactory as reading the book. Perhaps it is, if merely knowing the plot and the names of the principal characters is all that is wanted. The fact remains that a book worth reading can't really be known by such means.

There may be a change in this respect, however, now that Dr. Adler's treatise, "How to Read a Book," has become a best seller. Dr. Adler's work is a serious contribution to education, not a guide to easy skimming of current fiction.

Another straw in the wind is an educator's insistence that courses in reading are needed in high schools and colleges. Children are taught to read words in the early grades, but older pupils are not taught to read books and grasp ideas, as he thinks they should be.

Congressmen lead a hard life, by their own confession. But they're glad to sacrifice themselves for their constituents.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in wartime:

A friend of mine — a fellow toiler in the publishing marts—needed some large-scale maps of France. He went to the Library of Congress and found almost what he needed, but being a leave-no-stone-unturned fellow, he decided to storm the French embassy.

He got a formal introduction to one of the reigning secretaries. He explained what he wanted, what he had. The secretary graciously requested that the young man present himself to the office of the military attache, that he bring what maps he had with him.

The young man did so. He was received with great courtesy and friendliness. He was shown about, introduced, bowed to, chatted with. Each mention of the maps brought a friendly smile, a nod, and the word: "Presently." Presently finally came and he explained to another official what he wanted. The official asked to see the maps he had brought with him.

Now In 1875—

THE official cluck-clucked in amazement. Apparently he could not believe his eyes. Apparently he felt that his country had been very lax to place with the Library of Congress so detailed a map of France. My friend explained why he wanted additional maps, why he must obtain, if possible, maps that were not in color.

About this time, the official's face lighted up. He "ah'd." He pointed, almost triumphantly, but good-naturedly, to a small inscription in the corner of the maps: "Reproduction is not permitted." Patiently, the toiler explained that he did not wish to reproduce them. He only needed these and others to guide him in preparing his own.

The official went away. He was gone a long time. When he came back, he was beaming. By writing to this address in Paris, the young man probably could get just what he wanted—a series of most complete maps of France, published in 1875.

My friend almost fainted. He did not want 1875 maps. Perhaps the French embassy had their wars confused. That was the Franco-Prussian war. He wanted 1940 maps.

The official was so sorry. The embassy would be so glad to help. But he did not see how it could possibly do more. At this point in the stalemate, a secretary appeared and informed my friend that his excellency the ambassador would receive him now.

* * *

'Come Again.'

THE fellow stuttered and stammered. He did not wish to see the ambassador. He had nothing to discuss with the ambassador. But the genuine friendliness and kindness had him stymied. He could not say so.

Count de Saint-Qunetin, the ambassador, is a pleasant man. He is a man of wide experience and great knowledge. He fought in the World war. The long chat that followed even touched on the subject of maps. The ambassador was interested in maps. Maps were fascinating.

At last, my friend came away, with the Count's warm farewell pleasantly ringing in his ears. It was the French equivalent of "glad to help you anytime. Come back again soon."

Probably the day's report carried back to Paris this information: "A young journalist came to the embassy today requesting some maps. We are convinced he was not a spy."

But don't fool yourself, the next fellow that comes along may be. And our chapeau is off to the French. There's not an embassy in Washington that can say "no" so graciously.

Daily Bible Thought

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.—Hebrews 11:1.

UNWELCOME ESCORT

Listen, World!

One Man and a Monster.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY'VE DONE IT! At last—at last! Human beings have dared to take the grimmest truth in physical life and fling it on the screen in all its terror and heartbreak . . . and desperate, battling hope.

That truth, is named "The Magic Bullet."

This film is not a Hollywood stunt. It's history—a flaming epic of human adventuring against a monster that threatened and still threatens every man, woman and child in America.

It's dangerous nonsense to try to spare anyone's notions or ignorance by trying to creep up on this subject. Despite all warnings by the church, the medical profession and the public press, millions of Americans still don't know who Dr. Ehrlich was or what he did. They will probably think that "the Magic Bullet" is a story of a shooting contest. It is, in a way. It is a story of a battle with the foulest menace that ever rotted human flesh, wrecked human hopes, and broke human hearts.

The menace is called syphilis. The medicine that finally broke a little of its hideous power is named 606. It was discovered in the 606th experiment of as brave a man as ever consecrated his life to human service—Dr. Paul Ehrlich, who, before his final triumph, paid in poverty, ridicule, professional ostracism, and as cruel a public trial as ever crucified the Christ in the heart of human flesh.

I am an old woman. Yet in my youth and into the years of my maturity the word "syphilis" was forbidden in decent society. Innocent young girls went starry-eyed into marriage—to bear blind babies. Uninformed young men—in the beauty and power of their youth—saw all hope and pride wrecked with the one word, and love and marriage denied forever. Behind those so recent years there loomed a peril more awful than the black plague had ever been—a peril that killed its victims in ways which the imagination dare not contemplate, yet the world only said "Hush."

AND DARED IN ITS SACRILEGIOUS STUPIDITY, TO THINK SUCH FOULNESS WAS THE WILL OF GOD!

But there was one who would not be hushed. One whose pity and horror and courage were so great that he staked all he had—honor, happiness, pride, life itself — against the stealthy advance of that monster. That man was Paul Ehrlich. And today, if youth will listen, it may walk free and clean for the first time in human history.

I never met Dr. Ehrlich. But watching that play, I saw his spirit go marching on in the body of Edward G. Robinson. I saw a great actor so transfigured by the miracle he played that he was lifted up and up, to shining and incredible heights of achievement. No one can praise Robinson in this play. He is beyond all praise—for the service he has given a still ignorant world.

This "Listen World" is not an editorial. It is a shout of exultation that I have seen my world lifted out of its most awful hell. It is also a prayer—as reverent a one as I ever made—that every other mother and father will take their children to see the truth that shall set them free. Do not go lightly on impulse. And do not come from it lightly, laughing and chattering. Leave it as you would leave church, with the splendor of thankfulness on your grateful lips.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Do We Say "to Cotton to?"

We just naturally cotton to some people, just as naturally do not cotton others, and equally naturally fall back on the colloquial "cotton" to express taking a liking to.

What makes for easy use of "cotton" here is undoubtedly the connection in our minds with the plant's clinging qualities, its tendency to becomes closely attached to whatever it touches.

There is, however, ground for believing that this may not be the real basis, though without question a contributory one, for such usage, which goes back to Elizabethan times and even before.

It is possible that in the sense given, the derivation is from a Welsh word signifying "to agree, to consent," hence, to make friends with—which would make the usage not slang, cant or figurative, but legitimate, respectable and literal.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Believe In Yourself.

Believe in your own power to do
The thing that means to you
The most. Believe in your own strength,
Believe that you can do

This thing, reach this fair goal
you set,
Have faith and go your way,
Prepared to work for it, to let
No hardship or delay

Confuse you. Set your heart upon
This goal that means the most,
And know you can achieve it, that
It can be your proud boast.

Why Do You Fear the Dentist?

—By DR. CLENDENING

Why do we fear the dentist?

This has been the cause of an intensive investigation. Dentists are very much interested in it and no general formula can be arrived at. The following questions were asked a group:

Do you fear actual pain? Do you fear anticipated pain? Do you fear unexpected pain? Do you fear the sound or vibration of dental instruments?

In general, people reply in the negative to all these questions, but at the same time cannot pin themselves down to what they exactly do fear about dentists. The best we can say is that in spite of all the improvements in dental technique, people do fear the dentist and neglect visiting him, to their own detriment. If they could overcome this and go earlier they would probably suffer less.

Has the mental attitude any relation to high blood presure?

Yes; in a study of the role of personality in high blood pressure states, it has been found by Rennie, of Baltimore, that an unstable personality makeup, existing over a lifetime, has much to do with high blood pressure, especially in variations in pressure. So much is this true that, in many cases, he believes willingness to deal with the personality features may offer the only effective tool in the way of treatment.

Why should mother's milk be any better for a new-born baby than a well-imitated preparation of other animal's milk?

Brennemann stated that "The milk of every mammal is specific for its young. To this, man is no exception. There is, furthermore, evidence that the milk of one mammal is not only imperfectly adapted to the young of other mammals but that there is something harmful in nonspecific milk. . . . While it may eventually prove to be largely, or wholly, a mater of chemistry, there is reason to believe there is also an intangible biologic factor. . . . That an apparently perfect nutritional result can be obtained without breast milk is a matter of daily observation. That the apparent result may not be real is possible, even probable."

Of course, present-day experience shows that many artificial mixtures are perfectly competent nutritionally, but it is still the firm belief of pediatricians that a preliminary period, if only for a month of six weeks, of breast feeding is highly desirable to start the new-born child on its way in the world.

As Others See It

As You May Have Noticed.

By keeping your eyes open you can see hundreds of people in the streets who are not doing much toward boosting the safety campaign. They may think it is none of their business.—Toledo Blade.

Merely a Suggestion.

Spring housecleaning wouldn't be quite so bad if the alleged breadwinner could come home in the evening and find everything more or less renovated but still in the same place.—Columbus Dispatch.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic dispatches to the state department indicate that intensive bloody warfare such as the world has never seen will break loose along the West Wall shortly.

Probably the offensive will come from Germany. Hitler's recent conferences with heads of the army, navy and other high leaders are interpreted as preparation for this.

However, the French also are seriously considering taking the initiative against the Siegfried Line. There would be two reasons for such an attack. One is dissatisfaction in France with the way the war is being fought. The French people are fed up with delay and they are demanding action.

Second is the lesson taught by the Mannerheim Line, namely that these modern defense lines are not impregnable. The Mannerheim Line was modeled after the Siegfried Line, and the French believe that if the Russians could break through Finnish resistance, the French army can break through the Germans.

The German army, of course, cannot be compared with the Finnish. But on the other hand, the Russians were seriously handicapped by snow, freezing weather, lack of daylight and the Finnish lakes.

In the end the French probably will wait for the Germans to march first. But whichever side starts, the loss of life will run into at least half a million.

Note—When Sumner Welles left Washington he and Roosevelt felt there was about a 1,000-to-1 chance for peace, but that this one chance was worth exploring. When Welles left Italy he felt that even this one chance had about vanished.

J. Edgar Hoover.

NOT many people know it, but Super-Sleuth J. Edgar Hoover had a private talk with the president last week in which Roosevelt gave him an emphatic 100 per cent O. K. This has completely quieted any talk inside the Administration that Hoover might exit.

Real fact is that there has been much closer co-operation between Hoover and new Attorney General Jackson than press reports indicate. Jackson was not exaggerating when he said he was acting on Hoover's recommendation in abolishing wire-tapping.

Exactly one year ago—March 29, 1939—Hoover wrote a confidential memo opposing a bill then in congress at the instance of Morgenthau's treasury department, giving government agencies the right to tap wires.

Hoover's report at that time was one of the most vigorous defenses of civil rights recently written. He said he had men who were expert in tapping wires, but that if he let them practice it to any extent they would turn crooks in no time.

He recommended that wire-tapping be used only in kidnaping and espionage cases, and that even in these, legislation permitting it should be written by liberal lawyers such as Judge Pecora or Morris Ernst.

Note—When Attorney General Jackson abolished wire-tapping even on espionage cases, the FBI one day before had unearthed a Nazi attempt to sabotage the Queen Mary. But day after Jackson's edict, they followed the case only by shadowing the plotters, not by tapping wires.

Senate School Teacher.

HIGH SCHOOL students who are flocking into senate galleries these days wish that teacher might be as lenient with them as Senate Chief Clerk John Crockett is with his school-room of 96 members.

At high noon, the gavel falls in the presence of less than a dozen members. The bells ring, and Crockett begins his chore of rounding up enough senators to do business.

"Mr. Adams . . . Mr. Andrews . . . Mr. Ashurst . . . " calls out the veteran clerk in a booming voice. For every six names he calls, only one "Here" is heard. He gets through the B's, the C's, and the D's. Then he slows up.

"Mr. Gerry . . . (long pause) . . . Mr. Gibson . . . (longer pause) . . . Mr. Gillette."

Clerk Crocket, who lacks the schoolmaster's power to punish the tardy, looks hopefully at the swinging doors to the senate cloakroom. But still he has only a score of scholars, and he needs 49 before the session can begin. If he gets through Wheeler, White, and Wiley before that number is reached, he must find the absence of a quorum, and start to call the entire list again.

It takes only seven minutes to run the roll-call at fast pace, but Clerk Crockett consumes fifteen minutes this time, just to give the boys a break. He pauses as long as ten seconds between names.

At the end of the list he makes a hurried count, and whips the tally back to the vice president, declaring that 49 members have answered to their names. Actually, there are only 30 members on the floor, but Crockett knows another 20 will pop in soon, and he gives them a liberal leeway that they never got in school.

Leave Poland!

INSIDE fact regarding the withdrawal of American consuls from Poland is that the Nazis bluntly informed the state department about fifteen days ago that they would have to close up the consulates by March 20.

This gave one week to pack up records, furniture, close the private apartments of the American staff and get them all out of Poland. So the state department replied that the time was too short.

The Germans, however, were immovable. They said the consulates would have to be closed March 20.

At first, some of the more forceful minds in the state department proposed that notice be given Germany to close her consulate general in San Francisco by March 20. But more complacent state department minds opposed, and, as usual, they had their way.

Germany did not say so, but officials are convinced that the consulates were closed because the Nazis did not want American official witnesses to what was going on in Poland.

The "Flittin'"

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAD STOPPED to talk to a farmer, along a rutted hilly road, when three hay riggings and a stock rack laden with farm household goods and chattels came along. The first rig belonged, I judged, to the owner of the goods. It was loaded with bedding, stoves, tables, springs, mattresses and cupboards. Two ladder-backed rockers and an ironing board were tied on behind.

The next two wagons brought farm machinery and tools. I saw a plow, hayrake, mower, riding cultivator, drill and corn planter, besides bags of grain and seed potatoes and numerous graden tools.

From the fourth wagon came the grunts and squeals of hogs, and several crates of chickens were tied on top. A lank man, with a clean-shaven face and two boys of ten and twelve followed at some distance, driving six milk cows and leading a splendid Guernsey sire. Behind the cattle came a horse and surrey. Gray ornamental fringes hung about the edges of the top and a woman held the lines. A small child sat on the cushion beside her, and three other children were on the rear seat, holding in their hands a coal oil lamp, a fragile whatnot, and a small brown puppy, respectively.

"The neighbors are helpin' Benjy with his flittin'," remarked the farmer. "That's my team with the hogs. There with the bull—that's Benjy. He's good with stock, and the law allows him to keep his herd. They sold his farm the other day at sheriff's sale. He'd been on it all his married life—nigh fifteen years. He paid too much and tried to go too fast.

"Benjy's been awful blue. I'm thinkin,' though he'll get along better from now on. The farm he had wasn't very good, anyhow. The soil was thin. He's rented a fine farm with eighty acres of good black bottom. He knows how to work, and them boys of his are gettin' bigger every year. His wife's a hand with poultry.

"If I was a bettin' man, I'd risk a lot on Benjy. He's stubbed his toe, and right now he feels disgraced, but he's far from done. I'm glad he's not movin' out o' the neighborhood."

I watched the "flittin" pass around a curve across the valley, each wagon silhouetted for a moment against the sky, and thought how typical was Benjy's doggedness—and his neighbor's understanding—of our hardiest class of farmers.
